American History Stories.

By Mara L. Pratt, Author of Young Folk's Library of American History, Etc.

Vols. I., II., III., IV. Price, 36 cents each. Cloth, 50 cents.

USED IN THE SCHOOLS OF NEW YORK, BOSTON, BROOKLYN, PITTSBURG, MINNEAPOLIS ST. PAUL, MILWAUKEE, NEW HAVEN, HARTFORD, ETC.

For 3rd, 4th and 5th Years.

Your American History Stories are, in my opinion, among the most valuable aids to the work of introducing History in the lower grades. We are using a quantity of them in Grades III. and IV. Reading and language are best developed in connection with what is intensely interesting, and I predict a large demand for books of this sort.

S. T. Dutton, Supt. of Schools, Brookline, Mass.

The American History Stories is a gem and just the thing to create in the minds of children an appetite for historical study and reading. I have been long impressed with the idea that our methods of instruction in history were at fault, in not beginning the study earlier in the form of historical stories, which are just as fascinating to the mind of childhood as stories of another nature.

Stories of Colonial Children.

In writing this little book Dr. Mara L. Pratt has struck the happiest vein. The book reads almost like fiction, so ingenious has the author proved herself, in making the whole Colonial History of New England revolve around little Peregrine White and Oceanus Hopkins — the colonial babies — born upon the Mayflower, and the other little children who had their part in those early hardships. Every story has a child for its hero; it is the child's part in the wars and Indian troubles that is portrayed; it is the children in the churches that are described; the children at the first Thanksgiving; the children in the quaint costumes and customs of the colonial times.

Stories of Great Men.

Interesting stories of the lives of Columbus — Washington — William Penn — Gen. Putnam — and Benjamin Franklin. Every one knows how much of interest to children there is in the childhood of these men. These anecdotes have been woven together and written in simple disconnected sentences adapted to the last term of first year grade or to the second year grade. They have been arranged from blackboard readings by an experienced primary teacher, and so are especially adapted for the grades for which they are intended.

The Story of Columbus.

By MARA L. PRATT.

Fully Illustrated. Boards. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

This is especially interesting at this period of anniversaries. Miss Pratt in selecting her materials, has wisely discarded all speculations which have no bearing on the events with which Columbus is associated, but has made the most of what everyone is interested in knowing, and her book will not only entertain the reader, but provide information which should be in everyone's possession. The story of the first voyage is told in graphic language, and the landing and subsequent events are minutely described and as faithfully as if by an eye witness.

EDUCATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.: —

I most heartily approve the Geographical Historical and Science Readers published by your company, as valuable aids in the advanced educational methods being used in our best schools.

Stories of Massachusetts.

Boards. Fully Illustrated. 348 pages.

Price, 60 cents. Cloth, 75 cents.

It matters not where you live in the Union, be it in California or Maine, all are interested in Massachusetts. Among the first of the colonies to be settled, its history is individually connected with that of every State of the Union. Everyone ought to be familiar with the stories of the early settlement of this important State. The authors have gathered from every nook and corner of the State and have made a book not only rich in historical lore, but instructive and entertaining on every page.

Cortes and Montezuma.

Illustrated. Price, 30 cents. Cloth, 40 cents.

In a rapidly moving panorama Miss Pratt vividly pictures the stirring events of one of the most interesting and romantic periods in the History of America. The children's sympathies will be enlisted in the story from the beginning, while a rare map of the great Mexic city, with appropriate illustrations throughout the book, will make real to them the civilization, the struggles and final fall of these old Aztec heroes.

Pizarro; or the Conquest of Peru.

Illustrated. Boards. Price, 30 cents. Cloth, 40 cents.

No boy, or girl either, but will be delighted with the stirring way in which the adventures of this brave man are told. The illustrations are well chosen throughout and the book is calculated to awaken a rousing enthusiasm for the better nature of this wonderful conqueror of Peru.

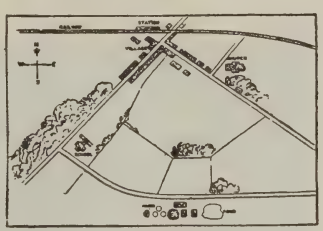
Geography.

Geography for Young Folks.

Fully Illus. Boards. Price, 30 cents.

The object of this little book is to give to the young pupil every possible aid in obtaining a clear comprehension of the fundamental principles of this important study. In carrying out the scheme several novel features have been introduced.

(e) Picture of a Village.



(f) Plan of same Village.

Beginning with some familiar illustrations in perspective, the pupil is first shown the difference between a picture of an object and a plan of the same object. This is followed by such illustrations as a picture of a school-room and a plan of the same apartment — the picture of a village and the plan of a village. Other illustrations follow: and thus the pupil is logically prepared to comprehend the up-building of a map, as shown by the series of pictures and diagrams.

GEOGRAPHY.

People and Places Here and There.

In this series, designed primarily for supplementary reading in schools, the plan has been to prepare books which shall have all the charm and interest attaching to volumes of travels written by the travelers themselves. Statistical geography is not present obtrusively, and what is given is just what the traveler would naturally see were he to visit the lands described. The author sees for the stay-at-home traveler, and tells the story in a delightfully unconventional manner. Every volume is profusely illustrated and finely printed in large, clear type on super-calendered paper.

Vol. I. Stories of Australasia.

Fully Illus. Boards. Price, 40 cents.

"Stories of Australasia" is evidently a success, possessing simplicity and life. It is a difficult thing to get down to the plane of child life and comprehension without devitalizing matter and style. You have done it without loss of freshness.

It is not only welcome because interesting, but because instructive.

D. L. KIEHLE,
Supt. Public Instruction, St. Paul, Minn.

It is a valuable addition to the supplementary reading matter of our middle grades, being attractive in manner and valuable in information. I see this is Vol. I. of a series, "People and Places," and hope the recognition accorded to this book will insure a goodly number to follow.

O. T. BRIGHT,
County Supt. Schools, Chicago.

Geography.

Stories of India.

After sailing away from Australasia and through the Pacific Islands, the author takes her spell-bound readers to India, visiting the land of the Brahmins, the Buddhists, and Mohammedans, with its palaces and temples, its wonderful pearl-diving and elephant-hunting. A book of books, and a wonderland for the young people.

By Elvira Carver, author of "How to Teach Geography," and Mara L. Just the book to interest children in the study of Geography.

LITERATURE.

(First Reader Grade.)

Æsop's Fables.—(Large type edition.)

We know that there are many editions of Æsop; but this edition is unique in that it is the only one that has ever been arranged for practical use in the schoolroom.

The pages are in large primer type, with all new and hard words placed at the head of each lesson as in the usual primary reading books.

Vols. I. and II. Illus. Bds. Price, 30 cents.

I have carefully examined the little volumes entitled "Æsop's Fables," by Mara Pratt. I have used them with my own children following the first reader. The books charm the children and through reading them they learn to love to read.

They can be profitably used as supplementary reading in second grade, and for that purpose I know nothing else in book form equal to them. They are Literature.

O. T. BRIGHT, Co. Supt. of S hools, Chicago.

(Second Reader Grade.)

Grimm's Fairy Tales.

Vol. I. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 50 cents.

As you wished to hear of our experience with the books published by you, "Æsop's Fables," and "Grimm's Fairy Tales," I write that Æsop is being read with great interest in my lowest grade September children. Though the most difficult reading ever given that grade, they are making a fine success of reading it; their live interest in the matter putting them through difficulties that would wholly stagger them but for such a stimulus. The "Grimm" is being read in my Second Grade (second year) with gratifying success.

C. L. HUNT, Supt. Schools. Clinton, Mass.

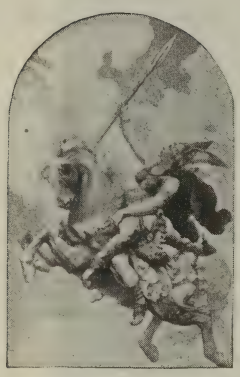
Literature.

(3rd and 4th reader grade.)



Legends of Norseland.

By MARA L. PRATT. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cts. Cloth, 50 cts.

The Grecian myths are so woven into the literature of the English-speaking race that they cannot be omitted from any course of reading in the schools. But the legends of the Southern races, while having a certain intellectual delicacy are often unchaste, appealing to the lower senses. They lack the power, the purity, the simplicity of the Northern stories. The former are of the court and mart; the latter of Nature and the home. We believe that the child should be kept as close to the woods and fields while young as possible; and we cannot avoid thinking, that, in its early years the myths of these Norse heroes are a finer stimulus to his intellectual unfolding than are those of the Latin races.—Popular Education.

Little Nell.

From the "Old Curiosity Shop." By CHARLES DICKENS.

236 pp. Bds. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 50 cents.

Of all the children in fiction, "Little Nell" is the child's particular favorite. The story is a pathetic one, but is of such sweet simplicity and is so charmingly told that it has long held the first place in what may be called the literature of childhood. The teachers as well as the young people will, we know, appreciate our efforts in editing this most charming of classical tales for school use.

Paul Dombey.

From "Dombey and Son." By CHARLES DICKENS.

Little Nell from the 'Old Curiosity Shop," by Charles Dickens (236 pp.), belongs to the "Young Folk's Library of Choice Literature." The beautiful story is abridged and separated out of the other matter and thus made much more easy for the young reader, who is sure to feel its fascination at once. This is a book to delight the heart of any imaginative child of nine or ten years.—Wis. Sch. Jour.

Stories from Old Germany:

The Nibelungen Lied—Lohengrin—Beowulf.

By MARA L. PRATT. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cents.

In the compilation of these legends it has been the writer's plan to take from the Nibelungen Lied only such parts of it as appeal to the poetic imagination of the child reader, and to hold before him such pictures of the hero Siegfried as are safe to influence the boy's conception of what a hero should be.— Author's Preface.

The Talisman: A Tale of the Crusades.

By WALTER SCOTT. Abridged for use in schools.

Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cents.

The necessary abridgment has been made without any alteration of words or sentences; and when it has been found necessary to insert an explanatory paragraph, it is carefully distinguished by brackets from the authentic text.

These books are the realization of a capital idea. If non-literary children do not contract a taste for reading, and acquire facility therein, by the use of such charming narratives, one should give them up as unteachable altogether.— Educational Reporter.

Stories from Shakespeare.

By MARA L. PRATT. V. I. II. III., Illus. Cloth. Price, each, 50 cents.

These stories are just what have long been wanted in the advanced grades of our public schools for supplementary reading. The selections left intact are the choicest and most familiar passages from Shakespeare.

"I have tried some of your 'Stories from Shakespeare,' and find that with boys of eleven and twelve they work admirably. I think the interest is more sustained than in 'Lamb's Tales.'"

G. STANLEY HALL, President Clarke University.

"We are using your 'Stories from Shakespeare' in one of our English classes. The combination of narrative and text is well adapted to enlist the interest, even of comparatively young readers, and retain as well the integrity of the drama. The collection deserves a place among the valuable aids now offered to the immediate study of the great authors of style.

HENRY J. STEVENS,
Principal Illinois Academy, Morgan Park, Cook Co.

Pictures from English Literature.

By SARA A. HAMLIN, Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass. Illustrated with half-tone Engravings. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

The object of the author has been to make the grand old English masterpieces fresh and attractive, so that young people may be induced to read them. To this end, she has arranged a series of mental pictures; and after captivating the attention by describing some bright and beautiful scene, she tells, in clear and simple language, the story from which it is taken.

The book has been specially prepared for supplementary reading in Grammar Schools and in the younger classes of High Schools; and is intended to arouse an interest in these "dry books" as they are so often called. Care has been taken to select the most striking and beautiful extracts, many of which may be committed to memory.

The New Natural History Readers.

Leaves from Nature's Story-Book.

By MRS. M. A. B. KELLY, State Normal College, Albany, N. Y. Author of "A Volume of Poems," Etc.

Vol. I., II., III. Illus. Bds. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

I have examined Mrs. M. A. B. Kelly's "Leaves from Nature's Story-Book," and it makes a very favorable impression on me, as it does upon my little girl of twelve years. It is an interesting and attractive book for children and will lead them to observe more closely the common objects of the sea-shore, of ponds and streams, and of the woods. The illustrations are in general fresh and excellent, and the type clear. I can without hesitation warmly recommend their use as reading books in schools. A. S. PACKARD, Brown University.

Mrs. Kelly realized that there was an over-abundance of books that set forth the barren facts in the science, as well as many compilations of all sorts and kinds. She therefore attempted nothing of this kind, but instead wrote a series of simple and charming stories, embodying in the most skilful manner the facts she wished to communicate.—Albany Argus.

(For Primary Grades.)

Introduction to Leaves from Nature.

By MRS. M. A. B. KELLY. Illus. Bds. Price. 30 cents.

Printed in large type, same as the "Æsop's Fables" and graphically illustrated. Just what primary teachers have been long looking for in these days of Nature Study.

The very simple lessons presented in this little volume are intended as an introduction to the series — "Leaves from Nature's Story-Book." The exercises are graded as far as possible, so as to bring before the eye of the child a new word or two as he advances.

Just Published.

Stories from Birdland

By ANNIE CHASE.

A seasonable book for the very little ones. Its large type and many illustrations will be appreciated by all primary teachers. As to its literary quality and accuracy, we need only to say that it is by the successful author of "Stories from Animal Land."

Large Type Edition. Boards. Fully Illus.

Price, 30 cents.

Myths of Old Greece.

By MARA L. PRATT.

Fully Illus. Boards, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

The Myths of Old Greece are simply written, so that they may be used in the intermediate and higher primary grade. At the same time the style is so flowing, imaginative and poetic that the book is equally charming even to high school pupils. All the repellant features too common in Greek mythology have been carefully avoided, and the thought is made to turn in every story to the good and beautiful. We believe we can recommend this book as one without a pernicious line or a story that falls below the right spirit in moral and æsthetic tone. To those teachers alive to the importance of carefully culled myths this book will be most acceptable.

Nature Study.

In Mythland.

By M. Helen Beckwith. Cloth. Price, 35 cents.

The author of these adaptations of Greek Myths to the minds of the English-speaking child is M. Helen Beckwith, a kindergartner and teacher of long experience, and unusual gifts. Much of her work has been tested in her actual relations with such little minds as these for which the book is written. Its literary quality is of the best, and it is sure to meet a want as yet but partially supplied. Each story is finely and copiously illustrated by Miss Susanne Lathrop in pen and ink and wash sketches especially made for this work.

(For 2nd and 3rd Year.)

Little Flower Folks, or Stories from Flower-Land.

By Mara L. Pratt. Vols. I. and II. Boards, 30 cts. each. Cloth, 40 cts., net.

There is in little children an innate love for flowers. No one so enthusiastically welcomes the springtime as do the children — no one else has time to welcome it, to no one else is it all so new and beatiful. Then why not nourish and cultivate this taste of the child for the flower-world?

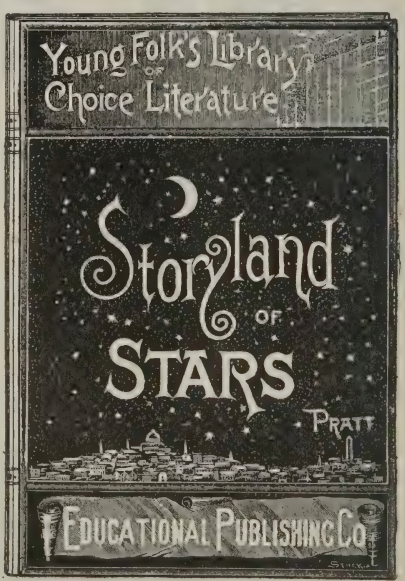
Storyland of Stars.

By Mara L. Pratt.

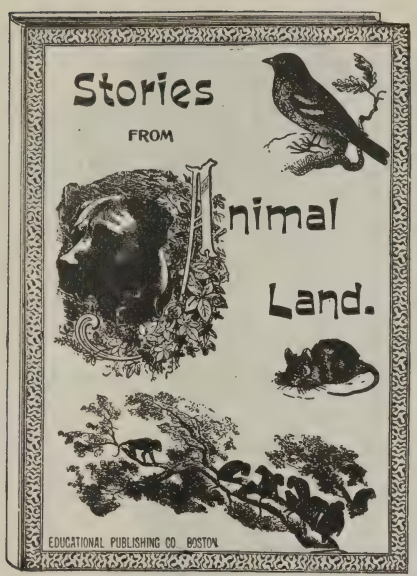
Illus. Boards, 40 cts. Cloth, 50 cts., net.

It gives an inexhaustible fund of instructive narrative to draw upon, weaving the dry details of astronomy with the mythological "fairy tales" of the sky, and makes a charming "storyland" of this most interesting study of the heavens.

One teacher says of it, "The study of the stars with their delightful legends is to my children this winter term what the flowers are to them in the spring term. I had never supposed such interest in the stars could be aroused in children."



Natural History.



Stories from Animal Land.

By ANNIE E. CHASE.

Small qto. Illustrated. Price, 50 cents.

A dainty collection of stories of the "home life" of animals, birds, insects, etc., expressly compiled for inculcating in children a sense of humanity towards, and loving care for the helpless creatures dependent upon their benevolence. Every teacher will be charmed with its usefulness, for it is just the book that children will "take to."

Ethics: Stories for Home and School.

Written and compiled by JULIA M. DEWEY, Principal Lowell Training School. Author of "How to Teach Manners," etc. Price, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

Mrs. Dewey's book on Ethics is admirable both in conception and execution. It puts in an interesting and practical shape the leading idea of the times on moral education in the public schools, and will, I trust, do much to direct and advance this important work.

Choice Selections.

By CHARLES NORTHEND, A. M. 210 p. Boards, price, 50 cents.

Being about six hundred extracts from more than two hundred different authors. Designed for lessons in Recitation, Reading, Morals, and Literature.

I am glad to see this excellent book of Selections for Schools. I think I have never seen any book of the kind more wisely adapted to this purpose.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

This volume is very interesting and calculated to do much good. I like the idea of placing these brief extracts in the hands of the young.

HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

These Selections are made with fine critical judgment and literary taste. I only wish my early teachers had known enough to fill my mind with such treasures.

T. M. BALLIET,

Stories of Industry.

By A. Chase and E. Clow. Vols. I., and II.. Fully Illus. Price, each, 40 cents. Cloth, 60 cents.

Every page teems with information, and this information is given in so popular a manner that it interests old and young alike. "I have witnessed," says Supt. Anderson, of Milwaukee, in speaking of these books, "no effort so successful as this to combine the practice of reading and training in reading with the getting of useful knowledge."

These are in my opinion unsurpassed for the purpose of Supplementary reading and to impart a knowledge of modern industries. I have witnessed no effort so successful as this to combine the practice of reading and training in reading with the getting of useful knowledge. I wish every school in our city was supplied with sets of these books, because they best realize the true aim of the work of Supplementary reading in intermediate and lower grades.

Wm. E. Anderson,
Supt. Schools, Milwaukee. Wis.

The utility of these books rests not alone in the fact that they will be great aids in the teaching of reading; nor will the information they contain be their greatest usefulness; but they will awaken in their readers desires for broader information and, thereby, lead them into other useful reading.

A Year Among the Trees.

By WILSON FLAGG.

How many of us when in the beautiful woodland wish we knew a little more about the trees and shrubs at least their names and peculiarities? Few even know the difference between our most common trees, much less the different kinds of each species. Much enjoyment is lost, and much mortifying ignorance shown, when a little knowledge of Nature's beauties would double our capacity for enjoyment and mark the cultured person. The trouble has been that reliable and popular books in this line, something easily readable by a busy person, who has neither the time nor the inclination to "pore over" scientific botanical dissertations, have been very scarce or high priced. One of the best books in this field is the famous one by Wilson Flagg, entitled "A Year Among the Trees." Every tree and shrub found in the East is described here in a popular common-sense manner In fact, it is just such a book as a lover of Nature wishes.—Gameland.

Illus. Cloth. 320 pp. Price, $1.00.

A Year With the Birds.

Silk cloth. Price, $1.00.

WILSON FLAGG is also the author of this illustrated work, and he has treated his subject in a form that is readable to both naturalist and simple bird lover. Birds of winter, birds of the night, birds of the moor, sea and shore, birds of the pasture and forest, and farm and barn-yard, are all treated of, and hundreds of species receive a detailed review.

Every lover of the birds will find within these pages much to charm, interest and instruct. This is not a scientific work for study, but a popular, usable book—just such as you want in your home or for ready reference, or to take with you into the woods and fields.— Chatham Courier.

Entertaining Lives of the Authors with Questions, Outlines and Essay Topics.

Just what you need to interest your pupils in American Literature.

The sketches are intended for Supplementary Reading in the highest grades of work; while in the lower they are for the assistance of the teacher, who can easily adopt them to the age of her pupils.

The questions, outlines and essay topics are suggestive of methods of study which have produced the best results. Teachers everywhere will recognize the economy of making the composition work directly tributary to the language and reading, thus facilitating the former and strengthening the latter.

By PROF. G. E. MERKLEY, M. A. Part I.— English Literature to the Age of Milton.

Vol. I. Illus. Cloth, 50 cents.

For a clear, condensed, yet not skeletonized handbook on English literature, this is particularly worthy of the teacher's attention. It is an outline; still nothing is omitted that takes from the life and warmth and humanity of the subject. Two features of this book will commend itself: (1) Effort is made in the treatment of each author to leave upon the student's mind a distinct impression of the individuality of the writer; the leading incidents of his life, his manner of writing, his habits, etc. (2) In recognition of the fact that literature in its highest and broadest sense should be taught as the outgrowth of a nation's life. Prof. Merkley has prefaced its sketch with an introduction to the period, the peculiar circumstances which shaped the writing and moulded the thought of that division.

Vol. I., after a fine prefatory essay on poetry and rhythm, begins with the early Celts, passes on through the Norman authors, the forerunners of Chaucer, the age of Chaucer, early Scotch poets, the age of Caxton, the age of Elizabeth, and closes with an exhaustive chapter on Milton, his times and his contemporaries.

Applied Psychology.

An Introduction to the Principles and Practice of Education. By J. A. McLellan L.A., LL.D., Director of Normal Schools, etc., and Prof. Dewey, Mich.

This work will be found to justify its title; it is a work written for teachers by a teacher.

It contains "Outline Methods" — grounded on explicitly derived principles — on Geography, Arithmetic, Primary Reading, the Training of Language Power and Grammar. These Outlines, in the light of the established principles, will prove of more worth to the teacher than volumes of mechanical ways and devices and detailed "methods."

Fairyland of Flowers

A Popular Illustrated Botany for the Home and School.

I believe teachers will find the Fairyland of Flowers very helpful. I know, from my experience with teachers, that it is just what most teachers need. Plant study is the easiest and most promising division of nature study and such a book will help teachers who know nothing about plants, if they will study the plants also and not merely the books. The illustrations are unusually good. Busy teachers who want to correlate nature study with literature will find the poems and stories interwoven with the plant descriptions, very helpful. They help teachers to realize that plants are more than mere structures to be picked apart or analyzed and described. CHARLES B. SCOTT, Oswego Normal School.

LITERATURE

at a Cost of Five Cents a Pupil.

The children ought to bless the spirit that prompted the getting up of such books.

MASON S. STONE, State Supt. of Education, Vt.

A short time since I sent you an order for the Five Cent series for little people. I have 40 third year pupils, who have become so interested and hurry to school mornings, that they may have the promise of one to take home at night. I think if the author could see how eager the faces, and how soiled the covers from little finger marks, he would feel fully repaid for all the labor of preparing them.

CROTHERS (Rev. Samuel McChord). "Members of One Body." Six Sermons preached at Unity Church, St. Paul, Minn. 132 pages. Cloth, 75 cents. Paper, 50 cents.

In the whole list of Liberal Religious books, past and present, it would be hard to find any series of utterances freer with the true freedom—more ingenuous, more appreciative, more prophetic of the unity that is to be, more religiously "satisfying"—than Mr. Crothers gives us in these six discourses. The outline alone, which each chapter contains, of the stronger, more helpful points in the various schemes of religious thought and life discussed, renders the book invaluable.

MOZOOMDAR (P. C.). The Oriental Christ. 193 pages. Cloth, $1.25.

The "idea" in this remarkable book may be best briefly stated by combining a saying of Keshub Chunder Sen, the Brahmo leader, with a sentence or two from the author's Introduction: "Was not Jesus Christ an Asiatic? He and his disciples were Asiatics, and all the agencies primarily employed for the propagation of the gospel were Asiatic. In fact, Christianity was founded and developed by Asiatics in Asia. . . . Yet the Christ that has been brought to us in India is an Englishman, with English manners and customs about him and with the temper and spirit of an Englishman in him. Hence it is that the Hindu people shrink back. . . . Go to the rising sun in the East, not to the setting sun in the West, if you wish to see Christ in the plenitude of his glory and in the fulness and freshness of the primitive dispensation. In England and Europe we find apostolical Christianity almost gone; there we find the life of Christ formulated into lifeless forms and antiquated symbols. . . . Look at this picture and that: this is the Christ of the East, and that of the West. When we speak of the Western Christ, we speak of the incarnation of theology, formalism, ethical and physical force. When we speak of an Eastern Christ, we speak of the incarnation of unbounded love and grace."

"The existence of this book is a phenomenon; more than a curiosity; and rich as a new, fresh, and very suggestive study of the character and person of Christ."—Christian Union.

——— Heart-Beats. A Book of Meditations. With Portrait and Biographical Sketch of the Author. Cloth, red edges, $1.50. White, full gilt, $2.00.

"Its poetic title is suggestive of its contents. It is a collection of brief paragraphs, which are not so much the scintillations of the intellect as poems of the imagination and pulsations of the heart. In this volume Mr. Mozoomdar has transcribed some of his profoundest personal experiences. Here we have the music of a soul uttered now in a plaintive minor key, here in some deep passionate threnody, or soaring into ecstasy of joy, or breathing the calmness and quietude of peace with God. The book is an illustration of the lofty heights to which devotional sentiment may rise free from all tinge of superstition."—Christian Register.

That Bother of a Boy.

By Grace Stebbins author of "Wild Kathleen," etc. With 35 beautiful illustrations by Paul Hardy. Third edition, square 12mo, cloth. $1.25

"That Bother of a Boy" will remind some small urchins of the various bits of mischief they have perpetrated or would love to perform. If, however, they are also as good hearted and honest as this especial little bother, most folks will readily forgive them their scrapes. The story is admirably told; it moves to laughter in almost every page and to "lumps in the throat" not seldom. It will be a favorite not only of this season but of many seasons to come.

Five Minute Stories.

By Laura E. Richards, author of "Captain January," "Melody," "Queen Hildegarde," etc. A charming collection of short stories and clever poems, for children. Square 12mo, cloth. With illustrations by E. B. Barry, A. R. Whelan and others. $1.25

"Every mother who takes her little child upon her knee will feel the worth of this book for story reading. Mrs. Richards seems to have anticipated every mood and every liking of children in the variety of story and verse she has provided for their delectation. Innocent fun, bewitching jingle, touches of tenderness and bits of wisdom are all mingled together as bright and fleeting as are the varying emotions of the little folks who will enjoy them. The children have found a fairy godmother for story telling in this famous author who never seems to find the end of her resources for making the little ones happy."—Primary Education.

The Lollipop's Vacation.

AND OTHER STORIES. By Sophie Swett, author of "Pennyroyal and Mint." etc.

For years the readers of St. Nicholas have been delighted with the charming short stories by this author, the best of which are now attractively presented in book form. The best of the original illustrations are used and a large number of others, by Ethelred B. Barry, the well-known illustrator of children's stories, have been added. Square 12mo, cloth, handsome cover design. $1.25

The Wooing of Osyth.

A story of Saxon times, by R. T. Sizer, author of "Avice Tennant's Pilgrimage," etc. With 48 illustrations, both text and full-page by M. M. Blake. Square 12mo, cloth. $1.25

The heroine is St Osyth of the famous priory in Essex, England. Betrothed to King Sighere, on the wedding day she refuses to marry him and enters the convent where afterwards she is martyred by the Danes Sighere marries Osyth's cousin and joins King Alfred in fighting the Danes.

The story is extremely well told, lights and shades are pleasantly mingled and the contrast between the fierce heathen Danes with the brave but forgiving Saxons is effective. The attempt too, to give life-like pictures of old times is successful.

The Rulers of the Sea.

By Edmond Neukomm. Illustrated by G. Roux and L. Benett. An intensely interesting historical story, illustrated with numerous full-page half-tones, many of them in color.

The story deals with the discovery of America in the year 1000 by the Norsemen; the early Norsemen's Colonies in America from the 10th to the 14th Century; the new discovery of America at the end of the 14th Century, and explorations in Brazil four years after Columbus' discovery of America.

12mo, cloth, handsome cover design. $1.50

The Crystal City.

By André Laurie. Translated by L. A. Smith, Illustrated with numerous full-page plates from original drawings by G. Roux. 12mo, cloth. $1.50

In this story André Laurie makes use of the old tradition that there was once a large continent between Europe and America, which sank beneath the sea long before the Christian era. A young French naval officer discovers a crystal city deep beneath the ocean, inhabited by an old man and his daughter, the last of the bold race, who rather than desert their native land preferred to sink with it beneath the waves. In his description of this marvelous city, and the wonderful inventions by which its inhabitants obtained food and air, M. Laurie much resembles Jules Verne in style, and The Crystal City should be as popular as the works of that celebrated author.

Cricket at the Seashore.

By Elizabeth W. Timlow, illustrated by Harriet Roosevelt Richards. A sequel to "Cricket." The flattering reception accorded the first volume leaves no doubt as to Miss Timlow's high standing as a writer of juvenile literature, and the present volume bids fair to surpass its predecessor in point of interest. 16mo, cloth. $1.00

Cricket;

A charming story of the haps and mishaps of a little girl and her friends. By Elizabeth W. Timlow. Illustrated with eight full-page plates from original designs by Harriet Roosevelt Richards. 16mo, cloth. $1.00

"A delightful story for the little folks to read about the haps and mishaps of a little girl and her friends. It is told in a bright and vivacious spirit with enthusiastic warmth of feeling, and throughout with purity and in a strain of charming simplicity. The writer is new to the world of children, but her success thus far promises to make her name a household word with the young people. She has but to maintain the line of her present achievement." —Boston Courier.

Kitty Landon's Girlhood.

By Jessie Armstrong, author of "Mark Marksen's Secret," etc. Illustrated by Miss Caroline Manning. 8vo, cloth, attractive cover. $1.25

The century was young when Kitty Landon passed her girlhood in a small town on the south coast of England. Miss Armstrong has succeeded in writing a story interesting both to boys and girls While the latter will enjoy readings of gentle Kitty's disappointments and trials and her final happiness, the stirring adventures and exciting incidents with which the book is filled will appeal strongly to the taste of the boys.

The Holiday Prize.

By E. D. Adams, author of "Comrades True," "Colonel Russell's Baby," etc. With numerous text and full-page illustrations by K. M. Skeaping. 8vo, cloth, attractive cover. $1.25

The prize is to be given at the end of the summer holidays to the boy who proves himself most gentle and chivalous toward his girl playmates. The trials of the boys, who are of course imposed upon by the girls; their revolt and their subsequent agreement, with it amusing results furnish the plot of the story. A pleasant vein of humor runs through the book, but neither this nor the interest of the plot is allowed to obscure the lesson of unselfishness so clearly and convincingly taught.

The Young Moose Hunters.

By C. A. Stephens, author of the "Knockabout Club," etc. Fully illustrated. Small 8vo, cloth. $1.50

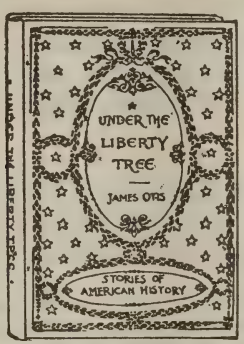
James Otis' Books for Boys and Girls.

Stories of American History.

By James Otis, author of 'TOBY TYLER,' Jenny Wren's Boarding House, etc.

Each story complete in one volume, with 17 original illustrations by L. J. BRIDGMAN. Small 12mo, neatly bound in extra cloth. 75c. Each

Under the Liberty Tree.



A story of the Boston Massacre, by James Otis. The fifth volume in his Stories of American History Series. Illustrated with seventeen drawings by L. J. Bridgman. An extremely interesting story of one of the incidents that led up to the American Revolution. Small 12mo, cloth, handsome cover design. 75c.

2. The Boys of 1745 at the Capture of Louisbourg.
3. An Island Refuge: Casco Bay in 1676.
4. Neal the Miller: A Son of Liberty.
5. Ezra Jordan's Escape from the Massacre at Fort Loyall.

In this new series Mr. Otis endeavors to interest his young readers in the story of our Colonial and Revolutionary history by taking some leading incident and bringing it before them in the garb of fiction — the characters being mostly taken direct from history. The result is a series both instructive and entertaining. Each book is complete in itself and no American boy should fail to read them all. The introductions point out the historical sources from which the incidents are drawn and are suggestive of reading for those whose interest is aroused.

"The readers of this newspaper need no introduction to James Otis. He has given them many a stirring story of modern life, and new popularity is likely to be his in his latest contribution, that series of stories of American history which has enlisted, perhaps, his best efforts thus far in the field of literature." — The Boston Herald.

"It is now quite a number of years since "Toby Tyler" made for its author an enviable reputation, both with the boys and girls and their parents. Since that time he has written many books for the same audience and for others who have since become old enough to enjoy them. It is safe to say that in so doing he has entrenched himself in the popular favor won by "Toby Tyler." The secret of his success lies in his wonderful sympathy with the aspirations of child-life, his truthful delineation of life among the class of children who act as his object lessons, and his avoidance of anything that would have a tendency to pander to any unhealthy taste."

Trilby, the Fairy of Argyle.

By Charles Nodier, Member of the French Academy. Translation and introduction by Nathan Haskell Dole. Thin 12mo, cloth, original and handsome cover design in three colors. 50c.

"Even if the story were in itself less charming, there would be interest in reading it for its possible connection with the Trilby of our love. But since it is itself a masterpiece of French, perfect in its conception, in its fleeting, evanescent, spirit-like coloring, its enthralling poetry, surely no apology is needed for producing it in English dress. It stands by itself, the prototype of Du Maurier's Trilby, and yet as different as women's nature is different from man's, as spirit is different from spirit, as one star differs from another in glory." — Translator's introduction.

"Its author, unless fate be very unjust, will take high rank among writers who describe the American middle class." — Boston Gazette.

What Young People Should Know.

The Reproductive Function in Man and the Lower Animals. By Prof. Burt G. Wilder. With 26 illustrations. 12mo, cloth. $1.50

"'What Young People Should Know' is the suggestive title of a book by Professor Burt G. Wilder. It treats of a delicate subject — the reproductive function in man and the lower animals with frankness and vigor; in a distinctly professional manner, it is true, but with instructive effect. The last part, which treats of physiology and hygiene of reproduction, contains plain lessons of universal application. The book is evidently prepared with great care, with a thorough knowledge of the subject, and with an earnest desire to do good." — Literary World.

Litchfield's History of Furniture. Illustrated History of Furniture. From the earliest to the present time. By Frederick Litchfield, author of "Pottery and Porcelain," etc. Richly illustrated with about 250 engravings, of which 100 are full-page. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt top. $10.00

A handsome volume, of the greatest value as a work of reference, to the student, collector, designer and manufacturer, being the first attempt to treat the subject compendiously, passing in review the styles and designs which have prevailed in furniture and decorative wood-work from the earliest recorded period to the present time.

But the book has the greatest interest and value also to the general reader. There is history writ in furniture, and the social and political changes which gave rise to and influenced successive styles and their modifications, are here treated and exemplified. Renaissances and Decadences, Revolutions and Restorations, have their monuments in mahogany and Marquetrie, no less than in literature and laws.

The most exhaustive treatise ever published in any language on the subject of fencing. It lays down a complete series of lessons covering the entire scope of the art of foil and sabre practice.

"In this most elaborate treatise Mr. Rondelle has given us the very best book on fencing that has been published either in England or the United States. It is much more complete than the treatise in the Badminton Library, which is perhaps the best known, and its very liberal allowance of illustrations of well nigh every attitude assumed in the use of either weapon makes it a valuable aid to the swordsman." — Commercial Bulletin.

"Louis Rondelle is maitre d arms at the Boston Athletic Association and the Harvard University Fencing Club. As the art of fencing is now being steadily cultivated in this country, and interest in it is swiftly growing, a book such as this, written by one who has made a life-long study of the subject, and who is so skilled in an art of great antiquity, must be welcomed as something valuable by all lovers of intelligent and manly exercise. M. Rondelle writes both with intelligence and enthusiasm, while the illustrations to the text, which have been taken from original photographs, are of much artistic excellence, and serve as object lessons."— Philadelphia Record.

"The new edition of Sir William Stirling-Maxwell's works is in every way worthy of the many handsome publications from the same press. The printing has been excellently done. The volumes are more than presentable, and whoever owns them will eujoy the possession of at least one of the very best books of its kind in any language, got up as it deserves to be. The "Annals of the artists of Spain" had risen during the life of the author to a price which put it beyond the reach of purses 'below the rank of stockbroker.' The price which is asked for the reprint is a manageable sum, and by no means much for such handsome volumes.

"A set of caricatures such as we have in Mr. Wright's volume brings the surface of the age before us with the vividness that no prose writer, even of the highest order, could emulate. Macaulay's most brilliant sentence is weak by the side of the little woodcut from Gillray which gives us Burke and Fox."—Saturday Review.

FOUR HUNDRED YEARS OF AMERICAN HISTORY.

CONTAINS:

FIRST: . . "Selected Historic Forces," a masterly essay, written by RALPH WALDO EMERSON, as Introduction to "The Hundred Greatest Men of History;" not to be found in his collected works.

SECOND: A General Review of Four Centuries, "to mark the great events, the great men, and the great elements that have contributed to make that history the most memorable in the life of the modern world." By JOHN LORD, LL.D., author of "Beacon Lights of History."

THIRD: . . A Full Narrative, from 1492 to 1892. By Prof. J. H. PATTON, Ph. D. Tracing more minutely the moral, religious, industrial, and political forces that have exerted influence, and the really important events in the life of the People and the progress of the Nation.

A terse, readable, trustworthy history of the eras of Discovery and the Colonial, Revolutionary and Constitutional periods—every Administration, from Washington to Harrison; with Marginal Dates, Double Indexes, Statistical Appendix, etc.

Octavo, 1264 pp., 2 Vols., Cloth, Gilt Top, $5.00.

Illustrated with Portraits of One Hundred Representative Men.

SOME CRITICAL OPINIONS:

"The work strikes a happy medium [as to size]. It is not too extensive to be read, and yet is full enough to give a clear idea of the history of America. The introduction is by Dr. JOHN LORD, the well-known historian. . . . He has a grasp upon the subject which few men possess. . . . Coming to the history itself, we are struck at once with the clearness and vividness of the style. . . . It is altogether an excellent history."—Hartford (Conn.) Christian Secretary.

"A lucid and thoughtful philosophical review of our history by the well-known writer and lecturer, Dr. JOHN LORD, precedes the work of Dr. PATTON. Of the latter it is not too much to say in Dr. LORD'S words: 'It is clear in style, condensed though interesting in narrative, lofty in tone and truthful in statement.' A fitting foreword to the whole is Emerson's wise essay on 'Selected Historic Forces'—an essay, by the way, which is not to be found in his collected works."—Christian Union (The Outlook).

"A marked characteristic of the author's work is the admirable historical judgment he displays in knowing what to select and what to omit. . . . With much skill the personality of great leaders is interwoven with the record of the events in which they played a part. Altogether the work is one which will be recognized as of much value for many years to come."—Columbia (College) Law Times, New York.

"The author does not fail to be comprehensive and thorough in the attempt to be succinct. It is an excellent history by which to form the minds of youth to an intelligent appreciation of liberty and an enlightened patriotism."—New York Independent.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 15, 1895.

"In our Ninth Grade this subject is taught by the topical method. Among the standard histories of the country, nearly all of which we place within reach of our pupils, Patton's stands at the head for practical schoolroom use. Its clearness and conciseness enable the pupils to find just what they want, with the least expenditure of time and energy. . . . I confidently recommend it as the best history for school use." RANDALL SPAULDING,
Supt. of Public Schools.

"To those who want a comprehensive summary of American history—and they are many—these volumes may be safely commended."—National Baptist, Philadelphia.

The Marginal Notes and Dates, and the Full Indexes; the Appendix, containing much interesting and important matter; with cross references by foot-notes to and from different parts of the work, all help to put the entire material at instant and ready command.

SOME HOLIDAY BOOKS.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLK:

☞ That graphic Soldier's Romance, Bullet and Shell. The 30,000 sold show that it has selling qualities, for, as the N. Y. Sun says, it is "full of spirit, humor, and the martial genius." ($1.50.)

☞ Dr. HENRY C. McCOOK's fascinating story of insect life, Tenants of an Old Farm, is always a favorite, and his new book, Old Farm Fairies (the "Brownies" showing the useful insects, and the "Pixies" the spiders), is a worthy companion—both profusely illustrated. ($1.50 each.)

☞ Typical Tales from Shakespeare's Plays is a charming and beautifully illustrated setting of "Midsummer Night's Dream," "As You Like It," and "Julius Cæsar," in combined story and drama—an alluring introduction to the love of the great Poet. (Tastefully bound in cloth, decorated, gilt edges, $1.75.)

RELIGIOUS.

☞ The Sistine Madonna, by Dr. A. H. BRADFORD, is "thoughtful and eloquent" (Hartford Courant) and "eminently tasteful in printing and binding" (The Outlook). (Japan paper cover, 35c.; Cloth, with Madonna frontispiece, 50c.)

☞ Dorcas: a tale of the Catacombs and the early Christians, by NATHAN C. KOUNS, illustrated by WILL H. LOW, is a lovely story, of historic and spiritual interest. ($1.25.)

☞ H. W. BEECHER's Comforting Thoughts for bereavement, illness, and adversity, and A Book of Prayer, from unpublished notes of his public ministrations, are peculiarly suitable for gifts (Cloth, 75 cts.; Cloth, gilt, $1.00), and are widely welcomed; while the great preacher's Works (see our List) furnish much attractive matter.

A Book of Prayer, Comforting Thoughts, and Beecher as a Humorist (three uniform booklets) in a box, $2.25.

☞ The Bida Pictures, illustrating Mrs. CRAIGIN's beautiful Story of Jesus, form a pictured life of Christ, that such men as PHILLIPS BROOKS, LYMAN ABBOTT, LEW WALLACE, and others commend as "Charming alike to young and old," "very interesting and instructive for the young," etc. Full gilt binding: 2 Vols., Cloth, $10.00;

TRAVEL.

☞ Two works of peculiar value: Face to Face with the Mexicans (seven years among them), by FANNY C. GOOCH, with above 200 illustrations ($2.50), and Norway Nights and Russian Days, by Mrs. S. M. HENRY DAVIS, with many characteristic illustrative scenes ($1.25); both praised for truthfulness and for beauty of style.

272 Second Part of [Act III.

Gave him defiance. But which of you was by,—
[To WARWICK.] You, cousin Nevil, as I may remember,—
When Richard, with his eye brimful of tears,
Then check'd and rated by Northumberland,
Did speak these words, now prov'd a prophecy?
'Northumberland, thou ladder, by the which
My cousin Bolingbroke ascends my throne;'
Though then, God knows, I had no such intent,
But that necessity so bowed the state
That I and greatness were compelled to kiss:
'The time shall come,' thus did he follow it,
'The time will come, that foul sin, gathering
head,
Shall break into corruption:'—so went on,
Foretelling this same time's condition
And the division of our amity.
War. There is a history in all men's lives,
Figuring the nature of the times deceas'd;
The which observ'd, a man may prophesy,
With a near aim, of the main chance of things
As yet not come to life, which in their seeds
And weak beginnings lie intreasured.
Such things become the hatch and brood of time;
And by the necessary form of this
King Richard might create a perfect guess
That great Northumberland, then false to him,
Would of that seed grow to a greater falseness,
Which should not find a ground to root upon,
Unless on you.
K. Hen. Are these things then necessities?
Then let us meet them like necessities;
And that same word even now cries out on us.
They say the bishop and Northumberland

Sole sound, the Sourd[1] prolongs his mournful cry;
—Yet hast thou found that Freedom spreads her power
Beyond the cottage hearth, the cottage-door:
All nature smiles, and owns beneath her eyes
Her fields peculiar, and peculiar skies.
Yes, as I roamed where Loiret's waters glide
Through rustling aspens heard from side to side,
When from October clouds a milder light
Fell where the blue flood rippled into white;
Methought from every cot the watchful bird
Crowed with ear-piercing power till then

And deem'd the stag must turn to bay,
Where that huge rampart barr'd the way;
Already glorying in the prize,
Measured his antlers with his eyes;
For the death-wound and death-halloo,
Muster'd his breath, his whinyard drew;—
But thundering as he came prepared,
With ready arm and weapon bared,
The wily quarry shunn'd the shock,
And turn'd him from the opposing rock;
Then, dashing down a darksome glen,
Soon lost to hound and hunter's ken,
In the deep Trosachs' wildest nook
His solitary refuge took.
There, while close couch'd, the thicket

"MAKING AN OXFORD BIBLE

MOST REMARKABLE PRODUCT OF THE GREATEST OF PRINTING HOUSES

THE OXFORD BIBLES are, as all the world knows, more popular and more widely circulated than any other edition of the sacred volume, and all the world knows also that their remarkable popularity depends upon the marvellous qualities of the paper on which they are printed. For the Bible is one of the longest books in the world; and, in order that it may be presented to the student in a shape at once serviceable and compact, paper of very peculiar attributes is required. It must be very thin, but at the same time it must be strong in texture and opaque. The famous Oxford India paper fulfills these conditions in a greater degree than any other paper in the world; and during the last twenty years it has entirely revolutionized the Bible trade."

It is a work of great beauty. It tells a story of intense interest, which never flags for a moment; its descriptions are drawn by the hand of a master, with the eye of a poet, and the familiarity of an expert with the objects described; its tone is so lofty that there is nothing with which to compare it but the New Testament; it is full of variety, now picturesque, now pathetic, now rising into the noblest realms of thought and aspiration; it finds language penetrating, fluent, elevated, impassioned, musical always, to clothe its varied thoughts and sentiments. —Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"The Encyclopædia of Missions" covers all the important facts touching the numerous missions of all denominations in all lands, and of all peoples, their languages and their surroundings, among whom missions are founded. There are also peculiar features of the work not indicated by the title. Facts concerning numerous heathen nations and the different versions of the Bible used in missions there. Descriptions of heathen countries and the bibliography of missionary research. The work, prepared with abundant ability and diligence, and at an extensive cost, will be invaluable for information and reference for many years to come.—Ex-Judge Enoch L. Fancher, President American Bible Society.

The rise, progress, present condition and promise of Christian missions are among the most stupendous facts of modern times. Nothing can exceed in interest the story and full knowledge of them. I can not understand how any intelligent person can fail to be interested and instructed by knowledge of these facts; but to make that accessible, an Encyclopedia of Missions, carefully and accurately prepared, is indispensable.—U. S. Supreme Court Judge Strong.

Of great help to the better understanding of the momentous movement in the missionary life of the Christian Church.—Bishop John F. Hurst, Washington, D. C.

A valuable addition to the literature of Missions, and invaluable help to every minister.—Professor Patton, President Princeton University.

IT INCLUDES AMONG ITS PROMINENT FEATURES:

The General History and Development of the Missionary Societies of the World.

An account, to date, of over 2,000 Mission Stations of the World. The geographical position and population of each makes this work a valuable Missionary Gazetteer. In addition to this, the societies at work in them and statistics sufficient to indicate the degree of their success, makes this feature of the Encyclopædia a real Thesaurus of information.

The History, Ethnology, Geography, Political Conditions, etc., as specially relating to Mission Work of the different countries where Mission Work is carried on.

Valuable Information concerning the Mental and Moral Characteristics, as well as the Social Environments, Religious Tendencies, etc., of Each Race Reached by Missionary Enterprise.

Particulars regarding Home Missions, City Missions, Sunday-school Work, Young Men's Christian Associations, etc., etc.

An account of over 300 Versions of the Bible, with Specimen Verses.

Biographical Sketches of Prominent Missionaries. This feature is of great value, showing as the sketches do, the experiences, characters, and methods of the most successful workers.

Elaborate Maps especially prepared for the work and which cover all the mission fields of the world, showing the Location of all the Stations.

Special Articles, such as Historical Geography of Missions, Music and Missions, Methods and Organization of Missionary Work.

Valuable Appendices which form an Encyclopædia alone, even though separate and apart from the main work, containing a Bibliography which embraces all books of reference in Missionary Work, and covering every department of Missionary Research; a list of Bible Versions, arranged alphabetically and geographically; a list of Missionary Societies, with the addresses of their Secretaries; a list of Mission Stations with the Societies at work in them, and their location on the maps; also, Statistical Tables of Societies and Countries, showing number of Missionaries, Helpers, Stations, Churches, Schools, Communicants, Expenditures, etc. An indispensable feature to all who have occasion to speak or write on any phase of Christian Missions.

Gunethics.

A Book Devoted to the Social Status of Women. By the President of Wesleyan Female College, Cincinnati, O. 12mo, Frontispiece, 162 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

The argument is candid and cogent, and is well worth a careful perusal.—Episcopal Methodist.

A strong plea for the recognition of women as having equal inheritence, endowment, and dispensation with man in matters of religion.—Boston Home Journal.

In this work woman has a grand defense. Not simply because the author is in fullest sympathy with womankind, but because he shows most plainly that God and his word are emphatically so. The prejudice of heathenism against woman's higher moral and social sphere, lurks in the heart of Christian civilization, and remains as a cruel barrier in the way of her rightful progress. This work will help lift the veil from the heart, and open to woman a freer pathway to the attainment of her higher ambitions in service as well as honor.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

This is a romance beautiful in its simplicity and in a marked degree instructive.—Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

Butler, J. Glentworth, D.D.

The Fourfold Gospel,

Consolidated without alteration, being woven into a single continuous narrative, presenting the Life of Christ in the order of its events, arranged in Sections, taken from "The Bible Work," vol. I. N. T. By J. GLENTWORTH BUTLER, D.D. 12mo, 212 pp., with Maps, Index, etc., Cloth, 75 cents.

A marvellous symmetry and completeness is the result of this combination.

Among the half dozen similar attempts to make one Gospel out of the four, there is none that can be compared with this one for exact accuracy in the use of the Text, without adding or omitting; for prolonged and exhaustive study of the whole subject, for distinct reference in every line to the particular Gospel in which it occurs. Dr. Butler spent a whole year in the construction of the text as it now stands, and no one yet has found the first error or flaw in it.

PART II.

Hundreds of Themes and Texts used in many Prayer-meetings.

There are few men in the country better able to speak helpfully upon this topic than Mr. Clark. His long experience in Christian endeavor work has furnished him the material for a deeply interesting volume.—Golden Rule, Boston.

It is an unusual combination of Christian common-sense, with a broad and also a minute knowledge of the needs, desires, tastes, and feelings of young people.

The training of young converts, and the making of them before they are trained, the place and work of the young people's meeting, the best methods of conducting it, and its relation to the development and power of the Church—these, under various heads, are considered wisely and fully. . . . We commend it heartily. It is especially indispensable to every live minister.—Congregationalist, Boston.

It is a capital book. Every pastor who reads it will find in it some hints of decided value. The topics are treated in a sensible and altogether practical manner, and in a spirit which might be expected of one who has done more perhaps than any other person to help on this exceedingly important new movement. . . . We heartily commend the book, not to pastors alone, but to all who are interested in in this matter.—Advance, Chicago.

Their author served for years as a sailor in all positions, from before the mast to the captain's cabin, and the literary art he displays in these homely but spirited yarns is not common.—*The Herald, N. "Traps for the Young" has interested me exceedingly as an authoritative, incisive, and courageous exposure of some of the most ghastly evils of cities. Mr. Comstock has no equal on this continent in knowledge of his subject. His moral heroism, his keen sagacity, his unflinching perseverance in his warfare with the corrupters of youth make him one of the princes among reformers.—Joseph Cook.

Delitzsch, Prof. Franz

Commentary on the Prophecies of Isaiah. †

Two volumes, crown 8vo, Cloth, $2.50 per volume.

Almost immediately before his death, Delitzsch issued it in a new edition. The title was changed; instead of a commentary on Isaiah, it read "A Commentary on the Book called Isaiah;" and this difference indicates both the direction and the limit of the alterations. They are connected exclusively with critical questions. He gives up the Isaiahic authorship of ch. xiii., xiv., xx., 1-10, xxiv.-xxvii., and, in an irresolute way, of ch. xl.-lxvi.

These alterations will be pronounced important or unimportant according to the point from which we view them. To Delitzsch himself they were comparatively insignificant. He tells us plainly that "in the Book of Isaiah the influence of criticism upon exegesis is as good as nil." In preparing his latest edition he acted upon this principle. He made no revision of the interpretation answering to the changes in his critical positions. Other scholars see in this the blot upon the last form of his work. Thus Professor A. B. Davidson, of New College, Edinburgh, finds the new book disappointing. "The author," he writes, "hardly seems to perceive the scope of his concessions, and has left his interpretation of the later chapters of Isaiah virtually unchanged, thereby, as we can but think, taking up positions which it is impossible to reconcile with one another." However this may be, the work, as here presented from the third edition, has the merit of consistency.

A Commentary on the Book of Psalms. †

From Latest Edition, Specially Revised and Corrected by the Author. Translated by the REV. DAVID EATON, M.A. In 3 volumes. Crown 8vo, 1,533 pp., Cloth, $2.00 per volume.

The Guardian says: "Of Prof. Delitzsch's new edition it may be fairly said that it is the most complete and trustworthy Commentary on the Psalms which exists. It is the care which this veteran scholar uniformly bestows upon his successive editions that gives them their peculiar excellence."

A Day in Capernaum.

Translated from the Third German Edition by REV. GEORGE H. SCHODDE, PH.D., Professor in Capital University, Columbus, O. 12mo, 166 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

The Description of the localities as they now appear is based, although not exclusively, on the works of Robinson; their reproduction in their older form is based on the notices scattered in Josephus, the Talmud, and the Midrashim, for which the author was not restricted to those already collected by Reland, Lightfoot, Schwarz, and Neubauer. The illustrations of the times and of the life of the people are in nowise the work of fiction; they are throughout drawn from the oldest Jewish literature.

Dickinson, Ellen E.

New Light on Mormonism.

A Brief and Succinct History of this Stupendous Delusion. With Introduction by the Late THURLOW WEED. 12mo, 270 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The book contains much original matter, the publication and presentation of which appear to me to be highly important. Mrs. Dickinson is a relative of Solomon Spaulding, from whose stolen manuscript "The Book of Mormon" was constructed. She has availed herself of family papers and other sources of information not heretofore used in histories of Mormonism, and produced a narrative of fascinating interest and great historical value. The facts she narrates cut up by the roots both the Josephite and Mormonite form of the "Latter-day Saints." It discusses one of the most burning topics in American current reform. It will aid essentially in eradicating a giant mischief and delusion.—Joseph Cook.

We commend this book.—The Churchman, New York.

We believe this book will do something toward destroying this gigantic evil.—The Standard, Cincinnati.

Can be read with profit by all who are interested in the facts about Mormonism.—The Critic, New York.

Presents in a compact form the history of its origin and development in the light of important facts hitherto unpublished.—Boston Herald.

It is a succinct history of this most wonderful social, political, and religious development of modern times, from its inception to the present time. One of its marked features is the particular and trustworthy account of its origin and early history, never before so accurately given. Another is the interviews had with some of the chief actors concerned in the fraudulent obtaining of Spaulding's MS. from which Joe Smith made the Mormon Bible. These interviews are intensely interesting, and serve to illustrate the spirit of Mormonism in a most vivid light. The author's brief, graphic history does in truth fling "New Light" on this cunningly devised and stupendous system of deception, fraud, and iniquity, which, in the full glare of the nineteenth century, and in spite of all that legal enactment and Christian protest and influence have done, has firmly intrenched itself in our land, and is gathering proselytes by the thousand from every part of the civilized world, and is spreading its blighting influence into several States and Territories of the Union. The book will be sure to attract many readers and deepen the disgust and horror already existing in the public mind in respect to Mormonism.—Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnati.

English Hymns; Their Authors and History.

Large 8vo, 683 pp., Cloth, $3.00 net.

This work cites in alphabetical order the first lines of over 1,500 Hymns. Under each is given a brief biographical sketch of the author, circumstances attending its composition, and incidents in connection with its use. Exhaustive indexes to authors, to first lines, and to topics, are appended. To Leaders of Praise-Meetings, Sunday-school Teachers, Parents, Pastors, and the general hymn-loving public, it will be found invaluable. The selection of hymns has been made with great care, and only well-authenticated incidents are given.

This is by far the most complete, accurate, and thorough work of its kind on either side of the Atlantic.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D.

Latin Hymn Writers and their Hymns.

Edited and Completed by REV. R. E. THOMPSON, D.D., of the University of Pennsylvania. A Companion Volume to "English Hymns," etc. Uniform in style and type. Large 8vo, 523 pp., Cloth, $3.00 net.

The bulk of the information gathered in its pages comes from out of the way places, and brings together the cream of valuable matter otherwise widely scattered over the broad field of literature in several different languages.

It is a book which fills a gap hitherto yawning, and lays claim to literary graces that were absent from all previous volumes upon hymnology."—The Independent, New York.

We shall express ourselves inadequately by saying only that it is an admirable book, because, in fact, it is a piece of remarkable, profound, and deep erudition joined to sound literary discretion, and an enlivening imagination. . . . The amount of labor expended on this book has been enormous. The result, for a man far away from the great libraries and sources of learning in Europe, is simply amazing.—The Christian Union, New York.

There is nothing pedantic or bookish about the text. Moved by the spirit of the hymns to know more about the writers, Mr. Duffield did much reading for his own information, and then offered every one the benefit of his work. No one who has sung or read the more prominent Latin hymns, either in the originals or in translations, and perceived their high quality, should fail to read this book.—The New York Herald.

Written in the form of a comic opera libretto, and a very bright one at that. Indeed, it is called "an opera without music;" and yet it is so well written that it almost sings itself. If W. S. Gilbert didn't write it, he should get the person who did write it to compose the next Gilbert and Sullivan opera, for certainly this new "Idyl of the King" recalls Gilbert at his very best."—Sunday News, Detroit.

Final Science; or, Spiritual Materialism.

Being a Strict Application of the Most Approved Modern Scientific Principles to the Solution of the Deepest Problems of the Age. 12mo, 194 pp., Cloth, 75 cents.

Agnosticism receives a deadly thrust at the hands of this distinguished writer, who prefers to withhold his name. He writes as a materialist of the most advanced school, and the purpose and scope of the book are to reconcile the established facts of science to his theory of Atheistic Evolution as "The Final Science." He utterly fails in the attempt, but clings to his scientific theory. The lesson is obvious. There is great skill and marked ability displayed.

Without yielding his apparent confidence in his theory, he runs himself at every point into the ground. The satire is well and ably managed.—Zion's Herald, Boston, Mass.

A Charming Story of Southern Home Life. 12mo, 116 pp., Paper, 25 cents.

French, Prof. C. W.

Abraham Lincoln, the Emancipator.

Vol. V. of "American Reformers" Series. 12mo, 398 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

This book deals with the man rather than with the statesman and the President, and seats us in cosy chat at the fireside, while the subject of its pages seems to tell his own story. Hence this life is unique.

This biography of Abraham Lincoln subordinates all environing conditions to their proper functions of presenting the personality of the subject in its true light, but also furnishes one of the most interesting ideals of the true American manhood.—The Southern Star, Atlanta.

Mr. French's enthusiasm is impressively genuine, his judgments of men and events, notably wise and even-tempered. Nor is any fault to be found with him concerning matters of fact; and author and reader will do well to remember that plain truth about Abraham Lincoln has the charm of romance, and almost the uplift of revelation. — Times, Boston.

Commentaries. †

A Series of Commentaries, by F. F. GODET, D.D., Neufchatel; Translated and Edited, with Preface, Notes, and Introduction, by Eminent American Scholars. 8vo, per vol., Cloth, $3.00.

St. Luke, 584 pp., Edited by JOHN HALL, D.D.
St. John, 1,130 pp. (in two vols.), Edited by TIMOTHY DWIGHT, D.D.
Romans, 545 pp., Edited by TALBOT W. CHAMBERS, D.D.

To an immense erudition and a living piety, Godet unites a profound feeling of reality. There is a vivifying breath, an ardent love for the Savior, which helps the disciple to comprehend the work, the acts, the words of his Divine Master.—H. A. W. Meyer, D.D.

Godet's Commentaries combine the critical and the spiritual more effectually than any others.—Lyman Abbott, D.D.

I consider Godet a man of soundest learning and purest orthodoxy.—Howard Crosby, D.D., LL.D.

I consider Godet an admirable commentator for clearness and suggestiveness.—Wm. M. Taylor, D.D.

In two qualifications for his work the author certainly excels, a profound sympathy with saving truth and eminent learning in every branch of knowledge connected with his treatment of his subject.—The Lutheran Quarterly, Gettysburg, Pa.

Godet is well known for his scholarship and evangelical spirit, and all who have learned of his depth and insight in commenting upon John's gospel will ever after hold him in high estimation.—Talbot W. Chambers, D.D.

I heartily commend Dr. Godet for his fair, painstaking, thorough, devout work.—Thomas W. Armitage, D.D.

Meyer is always helpful in matters of Lexicography, Philology, and Syntax. Godet well supplements where he is deficient.—Joseph T. Duryea, D.D.

A book of richest and most permanent value to aid in studying Sabbath-school lessons — clear, thorough, critical, suggestive, inspiring.—The Congregationalist, Boston.

Godet is eminently clear, orthodox, and suggestive. He meets all the destructive criticism of the hour upon the sacred text and its authenticity, with a firmness of conviction and fulness of learning which are refreshing, while in exegetical and homiletical notes he leaves nothing to be desired.—Zion's Herald, Boston.

It provides for a whole year's record of sermons, songs, atttendance, weather, marriage, baptisms, additions to church, calls, funerals, etc., all noted weekly, on the right day, and contained on the open page of a large quarto volume. The Key to the Gospels; or, Why Four Gospels?

New Edition. 12mo, 348 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

PARTIAL OUTLINE OF CONTENTS.

Questions and the Proposed Answers.
Purpose of God and the Gospel.
Matthew, the Gospel for the Jew.
Mark, the Gospel for the Roman.
Luke, the Gospel for the Greek.
John, the Gospel for the Church.
Gospel for all the World.

Many reasons have been given for the existence of four Gospels, instead of more or less, and many explanations of the apparent differences and discrepancies have been offered. The aim of this work is to show the historic origin and design of the Gospels, and to show that this furnishes the key to their correct and full understanding.

It is a master-work upon its special theme. It is the only complete and conclusive exposition of the distinctive characteristics of the Gospel writings and their writers.—J. Glentworth Butler, D.D.

Grimke, A. H.

Wm. Lloyd Garrison: The Abolitionist.

Vol. VII. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 406 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

The career of the great apostle of immediate and unconditional emancipation is here traced by a competent and distinguished son of the race he gave his life to free. In this book the tumultuous story of the Anti-slavery reform is traced from beginning to end.

The story is thrilling, and serves to remind us that the "higher education" needed to elevate a people and wean them from ignoble pursuits is to be found in the study of such noble examples of manhood as is afforded by the life of Garrison.—Journal, Indianapolis, Ind.

The author has addressed himself to the work with admirable intelligence and sympathy, and the result is a volume which will be welcomed in the home library, and to circulating and Sunday-school libraries.—The Chicago Evening Herald.

Vol. VIII. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 415 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

An excellent portrait of an always interesting statesman.—Brooklyn Times.

The book is well calculated to fire the spirit of patriotism in the youth of our country by holding up for their study an American, who, recognizing the evil of his times, became through the exercise of lofty principle, by his self-abnegation and inflexible purpose, largely instrumental in overthrowing it.—Boston Times.

The character of Agatha is as perfect as the character of any of Shakespeare's women, and the supernatural laugh which haunts the ruins of the old mill-wheel is beyond anything of the kind that we remember. Conclusion.

A better book has seldom been published than this. . . . It should be compulsory upon every young mother in the land to study this book. . . . We cannot speak too strongly in praise. . . . If we should quote from it, we should begin at the beginning and give every word entire to the end.—Chicago Journal.

Style.

Dr. Hoppin was a pupil of the celebrated Neander, and has studied theology at Andover and Berlin. His style is copious without being verbose. It is graceful, pure, and finished, yet free enough to permit him to interject his opinions now and then with refreshing abruptness. Every kind of sermon is described and analyzed. The principles of composition and rhetoric, as applied to the sermons, are laid down and illustrated. Even the all-important topic of invention is discussed, and every possible source from which aid can be sought to develop and assist the preacher's inventive ingenuity is opened to him. As to pulpit style, no one has written more wisely or with more caustic wit.—The Independent, New York.

It is a work that ought to be in the hands of every minister of the Gospel. It is a most suggestive and able contribution to the history of comparative religions. It is written to prove that the doctrine of the vicarious sacrifice of the Son of God for the sin of the world is to be found in the most ancient hymn-books of the Hindus, and to our mind proves it conclusively. The style of the book is clear; its matter interesting. We can imagine no more powerful argument for the use of those who are engaged in the work of giving the Gospel to the millions of India, or of those who are called upon to show the fallacies of the claims of the faith of the Vedas, as against the truths of the Bible.—The Missionary Review of the World.

Johnson, Franklin

The New Psychic Studies.

In their Relations to Christian Thought. 12mo, 91 pp., 75 cents.

What are called Psychic studies now engage the attention of many distinguished minds—some in this country, and more in England. These stories relate to what is commonly known as thought-transference, somnambulism, mesmerism, clairvoyance, spiritualism, apparition of the living, haunted houses, ghosts, and Buddhistic occultism. Many of the phenomena which these scientists are investigating lie in the dim borderland between the spirit and the body. The researches, here carefully noted, have been chiefly carried on under the direction of the British "Society of Psychical Research." In this small volume is presented a great mass of interesting facts, which are made the basis of some important theories and conclusions worth the careful study of the believers in Christianity, as well as of skeptics.

Though composed of pulpit matter, this is a book quite out of the common order, and will be sure to be appreciated by preachers and students of the Word. It handles a number of texts that are seldom used in the pulpit, and it does it in a masterly, suggestive, and original way.

The owner of this theological grove we suppose to be a minister in Philadelphia. On walking through it we counted nineteen "pulpit trees," and found them all named. . . . On the whole, our walk was so pleasant that we can commend the grove to others as a very pleasant retreat, where they will find much to admire, and be likely to come away refreshed and invigorated.—Messiah's Herald, Boston.

Laidlaw, John, D.D.

The Miracles of Our Lord.†

Crown 8vo, 384 pp., Cloth, $1.75.

The aim is entirely expository and didactic. The apologetic questions are assumed to have been sufficiently dealt with by other writers. Even within the range chosen, the aim has been necessarily restricted. For full and exact exegesis of the narratives as part of the Gospel record it is always needful to refer to the increasingly rich body of New Testament comment. All that is sought here is to set each incident in the light of the best exposition. For the spiritual lessons, again, the plan followed is not to collect the entire uses which might be made of each narrative. This would have given a mere outline of homiletic hints, which does not seem a very profitable task, however carefully done. The attempt made is to indicate, under most of the miracles, some one line of spiritual application, and so give an actual instance of their pulpit use. But the method followed is not invariable; a certain liberty of treatment is claimed.—From the Preface.

Cyclopedia of Classified Dates.

A Ready Reference Compendium of Notable Events, in the History of all Countries, from B. C. 5004 to A. D. 1895. 8vo, Cloth, about 1,200 pp. Cloth, $7.50; Sheep, $10.00; Half Morocco, $12.00; Full Morocco, $15.00. (In Press.)

The histories of about 120 countries are digested and the events of ancient, modern, and recent times dated, and all Geographically classified, and both Chronologically and Topically arranged. The work is the result of several years of diligent labor and research, and is the only volume in existence which furnishes an epitome of the history of every country down to 1895.

ITS ARRANGEMENT.

The unique feature of this book is that by which quick reference is facilitated and a general purview with the notable trend of history is observed; namely, the classification of the events of the civilized world under the seven general topics, as Army and Navy; Art, Science, and Nature; Births and Deaths; Church; Letters; Society; State; and these topics are always arranged on two opposite pages. All the dates relate to the same years, or parts of years, and all the dates of the same period are brought together before the eye at once—an arrangement by which a comparison of parallel events in any department of history may be rapidly made, and the side-lights of any event examined and studied.

ANALYSIS OF TOPICS.

ARMY AND NAVY, includes organization, equipment, movement of troops, conflicts on sea and land, and the launching and testing of war-ships during war and peace.

ART, SCIENCE, AND NATURE, includes architecture, discoveries, inventions, the drama, music, painting, sculpture, and sciences, with storms, floods, and other phenomena of nature.

Historical Lights;

Or, Six Thousand Historical Extracts, Illustrating Thirty Thousand Topics. Especially arranged for Ministers, Lecturers, Public Speakers, Writers for the Press, Lawyers, and all who have Occasion to use Illustrations drawn from Historical Literature. Compiled by Rev. CHARLES E. LITTLE, author of "Biblical Lights and Side-Lights." 8vo, 964 pp.: Cloth, $5.00; Sheep, $6.50 net.

These lights are a galaxy of quotations taken exclusively from standard histories and biographies. All are arranged in alphabetical order under suitable topics, and each, complete in itself, refers the reader to the author and chapter quoted. They consist of facts, incidents, examples, and precedents selected for illustrative purposes, and chiefly from the histories of the civilized races of antiquity and the American and English people. The subjects relate to religious, social, and political life—to moral and civil government. The book has a general cross-reference index, also an index of personal names. The book is unique in design and admirable for convenience and utility. The historian's name is appended to every quotation. There are no fugitive anecdotes in the work.

I read it with profit and delight. It will be of great service to all public speakers who know how to add illustrations to arguments. There are admirable materials in it for the feathers of a million arrows.—Joseph Cook.

Such a wealth of material as this work contains makes it one of the most useful collections of information that I have ever seen. It is altogether the best historical reference book ever published. It is an intelligent collection of authorities such as a student might have made in the course of twenty years, if he had once a day found an item which he regarded as of value. The indices are particularly commendable, and the system of cross-reference is as useful as it is novel. It seems to me that the book will be essential for reference to every scholar and in every library.—Abram S. Hewitt.

John B. Gough: The Apostle of Cold Water.

Vol. XI. of "American Reformers" Series. Mr. MARTYN here does for Mr. Gough what he does for Mr. Phillips and Mr. Dodge—shows us the Man. The book is bright and interesting to a remarkable degree, with not one dull page, not a single sleepy sentence in it. With Portrait. 12mo, 336 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

Wendell Phillips: The Agitator.

Vol. I. of "American Reformers" Series. Mr. MARTYN, who knew the Great Orator personally, has given a Complete Analysis of his Services to Mankind, and of his style as a Speaker, together with an intensely interesting mass of Anecdotal and Illustrative Matter. In the Volume is included in full, in an Appendix, three of Mr. Phillips' Masterpieces of Eloquence, which have never before been issued in Book Form. With Portrait. 12mo, 600 pp., Cloth Binding, with Frontispiece, $1.50.

Such a book ought to kindle every manly heart into a fresh endeavor of devotion to all noble endeavors for his his country and his fellowmen.—Bishop Henry C. Potter, New York.

The literary tone and quality of the book are worthy of the subject. But the psychology is wonderful. I turned the pages for a description of Wendell Phillips, and was startled to meet the man face to face.—James Russell Lowell (shortly before his death).

William E. Dodge: The Christian Merchant.

Vol. III. of "American Reformers" Series. Though a Prince of Trade, Wm. E. Dodge found time for a thousand interests outside of his Counting-room; and these, instead of interfering with his business, worked into and tempered it. Thus he was as Eminent as a Planter of Schools, Founder of Churches, Patron of Colleges, Helper of Men, and Patriot, as he was well known in Commerce. With Portrait. 12mo, 349 pages, Cloth, $1.50.

Sparkling and inviting from beginning to end. . . . Reads like a romance. — Mid-Continent, St. Louis.

To the young just commencing life we recommend the book. It contains lessons of inestimable value, however, for all, old and young. The editor has handled his subject in so able a manner that the reader is entranced, and is carried on and on, until, with a sigh of regret, the book is laid down.—The Chicago Herald.

The Destruction of Gotham.

12mo, 214 pp.: Paper, 25 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 139.)

This is a most graphic story of the times, showing the conflict between the upper and lower strata of society in New York, ending in a great disaster to the city itself. It is an intensely interesting and powerful story. Joaquin Miller is a writer whose fame is world-wide.

To follow him is like following a keen, swift rider, who rides eagerly, it matters not whither, and who attracts us by a wild grace and beautiful skill as he rushes through scenes of luxuriant loveliness, that would cause a less impetuous horseman to pause and linger.—The London Globe.

Mills, Walter T.

The Science of Politics.

By WALTER THOMAS MILLS, Secretary of the National Inter-Collegiate Association. 12mo, 224 pp.: Paper, 50 cents; Cloth, $1.00. (S. Lib., 152.)

This book is an attempt to discover the ways and means by which the common citizen may become an active and effective part of the government under which he lives. It formulates and discusses the underlying principles involved in every conceivable phase of practical politics. It is not a book of day dreams. It deals directly with those daily duties and privileges of worthy citizenship which are of the greatest practical importance. It is not a book of theories divorced from facts, demanding an ideal and impossible social condition for their use. It deals directly with the hard facts of our political history, and never loses sight of the necessary conditions under which men must act if they act together. Its foot-notes are extensive and valuable—establishing that the doctrines here taught are in line with the plain lessons of history and the teachings of great authors on civil government.

It has the cordial endorsement of the leading pastors of all denominations, and of the secretaries of missionary societies in all lands.

The articles of Dr. Pierson are alone worth the price of the magazine many times over. This Review is really in touch with the workers of the mission world, and to read it from month to month is almost equal to a trip around the world of Christian missions.—The Mission Field.

The People's Bible.

Discourses upon Holy Scripture—Expository, Sermonic. Each Volume Complete in Itself. 8vo, Cloth, $1.50 per vol.

The People's Bible is not a commentary in the ordinary sense of the term; it is rather a pastoral exposition, seeking out and applying the spiritual meaning of the Scriptures. In addition to this there is much critical matter collected from the best authorities and made available for ordinary readers. In the People's Bible considerable space is occupied by "Handfuls of Purpose," supplying hints and suggestions upon many unfamiliar texts, which are profitable to preachers and teachers as starting-points for useful lessons. The characteristics of this great work are too well known already to call for repetition. Scholars of eminence and writers of ability have passed favorable judgment upon the work as its successive volumes have appeared. And what is equally pleasant to note, the rank and file of Christian readers are delighted with its freshness and piquancy, and the spiritual, practical element which characterizes its pages.

Dr. Parker's insight, grasp, and power of expression, are of the nature of the poetic gift.—Sunday-School Chronicle.

It (the People's Bible) possesses great homiletic value and strong attractions for home reading.—Western Christian Advocate.

Dr. Parker is the foremost preacher in Europe.—Joseph Cook, D.D.

Dr. Parker has begun a stupendous work in this "People's Bible;" but its accomplishment lies within the possibilities of his fertile mind, should life and health be spared. He condenses wonderfully, and throws a splendor of diction over all that he pours forth. He seems to say all that can be said upon a passage; at times he gives only an outline, and leaves the filling up to the thoughtful reader. One is struck with the singular ability and special originality of Dr. Parker. He is no repeater of old remarks, nor is he a superfluous commentator. He is a man of genius, and whenever he has anything to say he says it in his own striking manner. His track is his own, and the jewels which he lets fall in his progress are from his own caskets; this will give a permanent value to his works, when the productions of copyists will be forgotten.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

MINOR PROPHETS.—By Rev. JAMES WOLFENDALE. 743 pp.

I have examined carefully this "Homiletic Commentary." As a result, I have no hesitation in recording my opinion that the work will be found very useful and helpful to preachers, and especially to those who feel at times severely the strain which the labor of preparation imposes week after week. I wish this work, and the series to which it belongs, all the success it deserves.—Very Rev. R. W. Forrest, Dean of Worcester.

We have critical and explanatory notes, homiletic suggestions, outlines of sermons, and a copious collection of illustrations and telling quotations from many authors. If a preacher cannot find something good to say with such volumes as this on his table, he must be dull indeed; not that he should copy from these pages, but he should be helped and stimulated to think for himself.—Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D.

These outlines are not mere dry suggestions, but are instinct and vivid with life and feeling. It is an invaluable repertory of all the best things.—Christian World.

We have on several occasions called attention to this Commentary, as the several volumes have been issued, and have strongly commended it to our readers, ministerial and lay.—The Record.

Nothing, better adapted for usefulness has ever appeared. . . . For all preachers, exhorters, Bible-class leaders, and Sunday-school teachers.—The Baptist Messenger.

The Commentary deserves to rank high. Nothing on the same scale has ever been attempted before. Altogether we have formed a high estimate of this work. It is admirably adapted to serve as aids to preachers, and we cordially recommend it.—The Aberdeen Journal.

It would be useless to attempt giving extracts to show the rich, full varied thoughts, and the anecdotal illustrations. They are to be found everywhere throughout it. This commentary will, we expect, long remain one of the best, if not the best, work for homiletical purposes.—The Leeds Mercury.

It is a commentary much needed, and of great practical use. The suggestions which it contains will awaken thoughts in the preacher who wishes to prepare fresh sermons, and while they furnish him with new ideas, they will not unfrequently increase his confidence in his own ideas, as he will sometimes find them in this Commentary in forms in which he has not met them before.—The Watchman.

These bells are not muffled. The fifty-two notes are clear, high, piercing, pulse-quickening, soul-uplifting; yet to the old parties, doubtless, very discordant. The book cannot be but a vade-mecum to every Prohibitionist organization, be it large or small, for a song often wins a vote when an oration fails.

It is the most learned, able, and instructive commentary on that portion of the Scripture.—Prof. Henry Green, Princeton Seminary.

It is the best exposition known to me of that section of the Sacred Scriptures. Pusey's Hebrew scholarship was undoubted; his learning was extensive; his acquaintance, particularly with patristic literature, was very large, and his heart was especially devout. His well-known Church views do not obtrude themselves, and alike in his comments on Daniel and the minor prophets, he seems to be on his knees as he studies—seeking only to know God's meaning, and desiring only to do God's will. I have gone through his Daniel chapter by chapter—wondering even more at the reverence than at the learning of the expositor.—William M. Taylor, D.D.

Richter has been called an intellectual Colossus. His faculties are of gigantic mould. He has an intellect vehement, rugged, irresistible, crushing in pieces the hardest problems, piercing the most hidden, and grasping the most distant. He has a fancy literally unexampled for exuberance. It pours its treasures with a lavishness which knows no limit. He, moreover, is a humorist from his inmost soul.—Thomas Carlyle.

These important pamphlets are among the strongest of recent additions to the literature of the anti-liquor reform. They mark a new departure, block out a new line of battle. They signalize a movement for a judicial as well as legislative attack upon the drink traffic. They indicate that, without for a day relaxing in the effort to secure control of the administrative powers of government, the opponents of the drink traffic will attack the license system through the judicial branch, and submit the license laws to the fire of constitutional interpretation.—John Lloyd Thomas.

As a preacher on practical themes Dr. Robinson has few equals. There is a simplicity in thought and diction, a directness, freshness, and pungency in form and quality that are charming and effective. Sanborn, Hon. F. B.

Dr. S. G. Howe: The Philanthropist.

Vol. VI. of "American Reformers" Series. With Portrait. 12mo, 370 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

A volume of interest, information, and inspiration.—The Call, San Francisco.

This volume of 370 pages can be marked as among the most interesting and instructive biographies of the year.—The Daily Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

This noble man was the originator of the systematic instruction of the blind in America. Dr. Howe's life, like some of the others in this list, is more exciting and more interesting than any novel, and has this added charm over George Eliot or Wilkie Collins—it is authentic.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

A late number of the "American Reformers" series, edited by Carlos Martyn, is worthily devoted to the great philanthropist, Samuel Gridley Howe. The frontispiece presents the rough-hewn features of Dr. Howe, deeply marked by earnest thought, an index of the character of this thorough-going American. Romance pales its feeble fires before the recital of the plain facts in Howe's adventurous career. . . . Mr. Sanborn writes with spirit and unfeigned sympathy. He has produced a distinguished memorial of a truly remarkable man.—Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

Sanborn, Kate

The Wit of Women.

A Careful and Extensive Collection of the Wit of Women. By KATE SANBORN. Square 12mo, 215 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

In this dainty volume Miss Sanborn triumphantly vindicates the claim of her sex to the possession of a ready wit. One would think that this gift would never have been denied to women by their severest censors. But there are male writers—especially novelists—who, in their portraitures of women, purposely ignore wit and humor, and persist in regarding those as the rarest qualities of the feminine mind. Miss Sanborn proceeds by a series of brilliant and apt quotations from the literary works of women to demolish that hersey. There could be no more complete refutation of this notion than the two hundred pages of this book sparkling with puns, epigrams, repartees, parodies, burlesques, and satires—as bright and keen as the best utterances of the opposite sex. Exquisitely bound.—The Journal of Commerce, New York.

Miss Sanborn's book is full of stored-up electricity. Its play is like that of summer lightning on the clouds, so quick, varied, and irradiant that one is never tired of watching for it.—Frances E. Willard.

This book is really funny. It is rich in fancy, in antithesis, and in brilliant flashes of epigramatic wit and the subtle play of delicate humor.—Demorest's Monthly, New York.

Schleiermacher, Friedrich Ernst

Selected Sermons.

The Greatest Sermons of one of the Greatest of German Preachers. Translated by MARY F. WILSON from the latest Authorized Edition. The volume contains 27 Selected Sermons, and a sketch of Schleiermacher extending over 37 pages. 12mo, 459 pp., $2.00.

As a theologian he ranks among the greatest of all ages. . . . He was a unique combination of mysticism and criticism, of religious feeling and skeptical understanding. . . . He dissected historic documents with the sharpest knife, and sacrificed almost all the miracles of the Gospel history as unessential to faith. Yet he ever held fast to Christ as the greatest fact in history, as the only one sinless and perfect man in whom the Divinity dwelt in its fullness, and from whom saving influences emanate from generation to generation, and from race to race. In this central idea lies Schleiermacher's chief merit in theology and his salutary influence.—Philip Schaff, D.D., in the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopædia of Religious Knowledge.

Dr. Sherwood has an intense sympathy with the person of Christ, and His redemptive work in its broadest relations is his theme. He has carefully studied the existing hindrances of every sort to the progress of that work, and exposes them with incisive directness and force. In his exhibition, both of the positive forms of vital truth and of the obstacles which to-day stand in the way of its effective presentation, there are many weighty and helpful suggestions by which the studies of thoughtful ministers and laymen may be enriched.—*J. This new edition of one of our religious classics is as timely as it is excellent. The notes and introduction by Dr. Sherwood, and the essay by Dr. Pierson, greatly increase its interest and value. I have already urged every member of the class to which I lecture on missions to buy it, and were it in my power, I would put a copy into the hands of every theological student in the land. The Moral Crusader: William Lloyd Garrison.

A Biographical Essay, Founded on "The Story of Garrison's Life, Told by his Children." With Portrait. 12mo, 200 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

It presents him as he was, indomitable, persevering, careless of the opinion of others, believing in the one cause to which he was devoted, and fighting on in immovable self-confidence until the day of his triumph came, and slavery was abolished throughout the land. It is a fine illustration of what one determined will, set to carry out one purpose, can accomplish.—The Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

This is a true biographical essay, reconciling character and conduct as presented in the life and history of the aggressive anti-slavery agitator. The work evinces keen, analytical acumen; and is a highly intelligent estimate of the strength and weakness of a man whose motives and actions were not always easy to judge.—The World, New York.

ITS DISTINGUISHING FEATURES.

INITIAL CAPITALS are here given for the first time in any single-volume dictionary by using Capitals only with proper names, or proper terms derived from them. This enables the writer or proof-reader to consult the dictionary with absolute confidence, never requiring the loss of a single moment in having to think or decide whether or not an initial capital is to be used.

SYLLABICATION is most conveniently designated by the single hyphen (-), so as clearly to distinguish such from compound words, which are invariably indicated by the double German hyphen (=). The value of this device will readily be perceived on using the book.

THE SPELLING of this work is conservative, and yet aggressively positive along the lines of reform agreed upon almost unanimously by all the leading philologists of England and America. It notes the preferences of each of the leading dictionaries where they do vary, so the difference can instantly be seen. All disputed spellings and pronunciations were referred to a committee of over fifty leading authorities in English, Canadian, Australian, East-Indian, and American universities. In the Appendix, the tally of over 179,000 votes, or preferences, are recorded, showing the individual preference of each member of the committee on each word submitted.

FOR PRONUNCIATION each word is respelled with the Scientific Alphabet. This insures the highest possible accuracy with the greatest simplicity that the combined ingenuity of the American Philological Association, in harmony with the accepted principles of the Philological Society of England, was able to devise. By this clear and unmistakable method, both a native and the intelligent foreigner can correctly pronounce each English word at sight. As to disputed pronunciations the same remarks as above on spellings apply.

THE DICTIONARY SYSTEM of this work is unique. A scientific system is introduced that enables the student to consider words in their true relation to all kindred subjects. By this system a word of any science or art furnishes a clue by which one may easily trace the subject, backward or forward, in all its branches, and when so collected, their definitions and unfoldings may be found to furnish a comprehensive and harmonious exposition of that entire subject, in accordance with the latest and best scientific light. Such a system has never before been attempted in an English Dictionary.

THE DEFINITIONS of this work are distinguished, viz.: (1) Nothing intervenes between the vocabulary term and the definition. The etymology is placed after the definition. (2) Where there are two or more meanings of a word, the most common meaning is given first. (3) Definitive statement is the important factor of the definitions in this work. The crude and loose method of using synonymous words is avoided. (4) All the terms of any Art, Creed, Handicraft, or Science were submitted to scholars particularly qualified for such special work. The entire range of human knowledge was accordingly considered, and the result is a dictionary that stands alone; beyond comparison; unrivaled as a defining dictionary. (5) Quotations are more modern; old "stock quotations" were avoided; and to enable the student to verify and consult the context, each quotation is located. (6) The 5,000 illustrations are given expressly to aid in definitions. They were especially drawn by our own artists, and many of them are in colors, which are gems of art. (7) An ingenious system of tables is incorporated with the definitions, each under the proper vocabulary term, expressly for definitive purposes. (8) As collateral aids in defining and word-finding, words peculiar to an art or handicraft, are given along with the definitions. Thus under architecture are given all the terms peculiar to the art; under carpenter are given the terms peculiar to the handicraft.

THE ETYMOLOGY is placed after the definition.

THE COMPOUNDING OF WORDS is for the first time reduced to a practical system and consistently carried out in the work.

SYNONYMS are illustrated to an extent never before found in a dictionary.

ANTONYMS are given for the first time in a dictionary.

AS A RHETORIC this dictionary is invaluable. The correct use of each of the prepositions is plainly given under its proper vocabulary place, and a department of Faulty Diction, as given, has been characterized as the practical grammar of the XX. century.

THE APPENDIX of 47,468 proper names in Biography, History, Mythology, Fiction, The Bible, The Classics, etc., are given all in one alphabetical order. This affords a convenience so obvious that "the wonder is no one ever discovered it before," as a Reviewer puts it.

Dr. Talmage's discourses lay hold of my inmost soul. The Lord is with this mighty man of valor. So may he ever be till the campaign closes with victory! I am indeed glad of his voice. It cheers me intensely. He loves the Gospel, and believes in something, which some preachers hardly do. There are those about who use the old labels, but the articles are not the same. May the Lord win armies of souls to Jesus by this man! I am astonished when God blesses me, but somehow I should not be so much surprised if He blessed this man.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

I have now been connected with police courts as clerk and justice for nearly a quarter of a century. While reading the book, "Ten Years a Police Court Judge," I seemed all the time to be reading a graphic story of my own experience and observations, so truthful are its representations of human nature, as seen by the police magistrate. Nothing in the book is overdrawn, and the racy style of the author keeps up the reader's interest from the beginning to the close.—Judge Clark Jilson, of Worcester, Mass.

Through the Prison to the Throne.

Illustrations of Life from the Biography of Joseph. 16mo, 225 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The biography is given with great minuteness in a style both graceful and forcible, and with constant reference to the usefulness of the story as suggestive of practical truth. The practical element is really the strong point of the book. Many of the lessons drawn from the narrative reveal not a little ingenuity and spiritual insight, and yet they are all fairly deducible from the history, and are at once seen to be both natural and impressive.—The Christian Intelligencer, New York

Vincent, Frank, and Lancaster, A. E.

Lady of Cawnpore.

A Novel. 12mo, 420 pp., Cloth, $1.50.

. . . It is not a meditative work for a quiet nook in the summer holidays, but a stirring romance to be read by those who wish to break away from all that is real and visible about them, and to enter another field where they may become so wholly absorbed as to lose all thought of present cares and anxieties.—The Journal of Commerce, New York.

Collaborated novels are not common, nor are they usually successful. In this instance, however, the result is perfectly satisfactory. Mr. Vincent made his mark twenty years ago by his "Land of the White Elephant," and his keen observation and retentive memory, and great knowledge of the Orient, combined with Mr. Lancaster's charming style and brilliancy, have evolved a really picturesque and delightful romance.—The Standard-Union, Brooklyn.

This is a romance highly dramatic and romantic in its incidents, and profoundly interesting in its leading characters. . . . The beauty and attractiveness of the writing is that it is out of all ruts. We will leave our readers to enjoy the story.—The Daily Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

Vincent, Bishop John H.

By the Chancellor of the Famous Chautauqua University. An Epigrammatic and Convincing Hand-book, Dealing with the Dance, Theatres, Card-playing, and Kindred Topics. 16mo, 86 pp., Cloth 50 cents; Presentation Edition, $1.00.

Wise and dispassionate. . . . The book contains a candid, fair, and, we believe, an unanswerable arraignment of these customs.—The Chautauquan.

Studies in Young Life.

THE VOICE has become the leading temperance journal of the world. I feel compelled to declare it the ablest agitator of the drink question ever published.—Axel Gustafson, the Great English Temperance Reformer.

THE VOICE utters no uncertain sound. It advocates a cause second to none in importance. I send my copy regularly to a college reading-room, where it does good among our students.—President McCosh, of Princeton College.

The sophistical reasoning by which it has been attempted to give some scientific credibility to the doctrines of Darwin and his school is exposed in a trenchant and telling way. He lays his hand at once upon the fallacy and drags it into the light. He fortifies his position with testimony drawn as well from the evolutionist himself as from his opponents. The argument is thus presented in a form to be appreciated by any reader, and is adapted to open the eyes of those who take it for granted that doctrines associated with great names and elaborated in famous books must of course be true.—The Standard, Chicago.

The Book of Revelation.

An Exposition Based on the Principles of Prof. Stuart's Commentary, and Designed to Familiarize those Principles to the Minds of Non-professional Readers. 12mo, 300 pp., Cloth, $1.00.

The author names his plan of work as the "common-sense method," and maintains his position throughout the entire book. His arguments and interpretations are to show that the prophecies of the Book of Revelation were given for a practical purpose to those to whom they were addressed; that they were designed to be understood, and that they were, in fact, understood by them in their essential import; also that by the application of well-known canons of interpretation — guides in all languages and fields of literature — the people of to-day may as fully understand and as practically use them for doctrine, reproof, instruction, etc.

Mr. Wilkinson strikes his foe with a smile and a bow, and with true knightly good nature, but his rapier is sharp both at the point and along the edge. As to the historic truth and the wholesome quality of Arnold's poem. . . . His examination is all the better for the excellent spirit in which it is conducted, the good-natured humor and wit it brings into play, and the nice and even playful turn given to many of his hardest hits. — The Independent, New York.

"The Epic of Saul" is a noteworthy and praiseworthy poem. Its proportions are fine, its lines show large curves of power. — The Independent.

"The Epic of Saul" is a study of the struggle of Judaism against the innovation of Christianity. By a keen analysis of Hebrew conservatism and of that popular sentiment which would naturally be roused by an unwelcome person of the Messiah, his doctrine, miracles, and mysterious end. Professor Wilkinson has differentiated the thoughts, emotions, perplexities, attitudes, and forms of antagonism which must have been developed in certain prominent men, who, withal, must have represented the several dispositions of temperament in society throughout Jerusalem, soon after the ascension of our Lord and the descent of the Holy Spirit upon his followers. It is the great success of the poem to put the reader in the place of those who opposed the rising and rapidly spreading faith in Jesus, and to unfold a marvellous insight into the reasonings, motives, intrigues, and action of those actually engaged in trying to suppress the new movement; and thus, it helps to form a remarkably vivid conception of the crisis and to gain a deeper understanding of the conflict. Professor Wilkinson's idea and purpose are very happy ones; his verse is never without elegance, beauty, or interest; and it is an uncommon excellence for such an effort to be perfectly true to the physical features both of the Holy City and of the country northward to Damascus. — Prof. John A. Paine.

Analytical Concordance to 8,000 Changes in Revised New Testament.

8vo, 24 pp., Paper, 40 cents.

Analytical Concordance †

To the Bible on an Entirely New Plan. Containing Every Word in Alphabetical Order, arranged under its Hebrew or Greek Original, with the Literal Meaning of each and its Pronunciation. Exhibiting about 311,000 References, Marking 30,000 Various Readings in the New Testament. Designed for the Simplest Reader of the English Bible. Latest Edition (revised), printed on heavy paper. This is the only authorized edition in America. One large volume, 4to, 1,108 pp. Cloth, $5.00; Tan Sheep, $7.50; Half Morocco, $9.00; Full Morocco, $12.00. These prices are net. With the Denison Patent (thumbhole) Reference Index, 75 cents extra; on either binding.

Points of Superiority over Cruden's Concordance.

1. Young's exceed's Cruden's unabridged by over 118,000 references.

2. Young's contains over 70,000 Greek and Hebrew original words—all analytically arranged under their English title. Cruden's has not one—a lack greatly lessening its usefulness to the critical scholar.

3. Young's is analytical in character, giving the various shades of meaning of several related words which in English are represented by one word. Cruden's is synthethical, and makes, as the basis of its parallel reference, the English word only.

Worthy of the lifetime of labor spent upon it.—John Hall, D.D.
By far the most complete concordance in the English or any other language.—Philip Schaff, D.D.
Cruden's Concordance is child's play compared with this gigantic production.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Bible Translation.

The Holy Bible, Consisting of the Old and New Covenants. Translated According to the Letter and Idioms of the Original Languages. A New and Valuable Translation. Octavo, 780 pp., Cloth, net, $4.00. Second Edition Revised.

A translation of the Scriptures would be of invaluable use, that would be an exact counterpart of the Hebrew. In a word, causing the Scriptures to present to the English reader not only the same general meaning, but even the same minute shades of thought and feeling which they present to those familiar with the original tongues. Mr. Young's translation seems to be admirably adapted to meet this want.—Rev. W. G. Blaikie, D.D., F.R.S.E.

The style throughout is strikingly picturesque, and frequently dramatic, while many of the emendations are peculiarly felicitous. Not a few of the arguments usually brought by infidel authors against some of the leading doctrines of our most holy faith are at once answered, simply by the correct rendering of the Hebrew phrases.—Rev. Adam Stuart Muir, D.D., Leith.

Biblical Notes and Queries. † (Out of Print.)

There is a brief historic and critical introduction to each book in the Bible, stating when, where, and by whom written, with other particulars of interest. The Aim of This Encyclopedia—What It Is.

This Encyclopedia aims to give, on all the broad range of social reforms the experiences of the past, the facts of the present, and the proposals for the future. It puts side by side, in authoritative statements, the views and theories and utterances of all the schools of economic or social thought. It gives lengthy quotations or direct articles on each reform, from the representative of the reform in question, and then either an analysis of this or a statement of the opposing view. On questions of economic theory it gives quotations from representatives of all the economic schools. On questions of fact it gives careful statements prepared from the best authorities. Articles concerning writers and workers for social reform living in this country, and, so far as possible, those concerning living foreign workers and writers, have been referred to the persons themselves, to avoid all possibility of misrepresentation, while in the case of foreign writers where this has not been possible, the information has been obtained from the most reliable sources. A general bibliography of social and economic bibliographies is also given. The general aim of the whole work has been to be scientific and exact, but not academic. On every subject recourse has been made to the best authorities, so that each statement may be relied upon as authoritative and accurate.

Too many of the efforts to improve the world are made utterly in the dark, and it is for that reason so many enterprises come to naught. Every effort toward what is further on, must be based upon a ground work of ascertained conditions. A volume that gives these conditions renders an invaluable service.—Charles H. Parkhurst, D.D., New York.

The experts who are preparing it are not those whose sapient watchword is "cut down the tree, all we want is the shade"; they are hard-working specialists and reformers to whom religion is not a creed only, but a life. —Joseph Cook, Boston.

Fernald, Rev. J. C.

The Economics of Prohibition.

A book for the people, written in a bright, popular style. Full of illustrations, Making its arguments plain to any one who can read the English language. It gives the most recent facts and applies them to the latest phases of the great problem. 12mo, Cloth, 515 pp., with an Index of nearly 800 Topical References, $1.50.

This is the best book on Temperance that we have seen. It is unanswerable. If any one wants to aid Prohibition financially, he had better extend the circulation of this book. We go further and say that its temper is good. We have not only to do a great work, but we are to do it in just the right way and with just the right spirit. At this point Prohibitionists some times fail. Without hesitation or reserve, we commend the positions taken in this volume—they are true.—The Morning Star Boston.

Institutes of the Christian Religion.

A new work on Systematic Theology. By Professor EMANUEL V. GERHART, D.D. LL.D., Professor of Practical Theology in the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church, Lancaster, Pa., with Introduction by PHILIP SCHAFF, D.D., LL.D. Complete in two 8vo volumes; 1,744 pages, with valuable Index to Each Book. Cloth, per Volume, $3.00.

The central doctrine of the Institutes is the divine-human personality of Jesus Christ; the author's aim being to construct all doctrines, not from God's Sovereign will, nor from the freedom of man as the point of observation, but from the vital union of both as realized in the life and work of the Mediator. The method is positive rather than controversial or polemical, and historical rather than analytic or synthetic.

Sayward, William H.

Thoughts on the Relations of Employer and Workman.

A Lecture by WILLIAM H. SAYWARD, Secretary of the National Association of Builders; delivered in Boston, Mass., 1893. 8vo, 16 pp., Paper, 10 cents; per hundred, $7.00; post-free.

This able essay emphasizes the fundamental facts which underlie the labor problem, reviews the causes of existing relations between employer and workman, and teaches the business value of harmonious relations between the employer and the employed. It makes manifest the facts that neither party to the joint-interests in the labor problem can handle the question alone, and that the remedy for existing dangers and difficulties exists only in associated efforts. As an example is given the case of two large mining companies in Germany, employing 6,000 men, and whose Boards of Arbitration and Conciliation are successfully conducted, and on which the companies and the workmen are equally represented. Nothing but good to the employer can come from a study and wide circulation of Mr. Sayward's lecture.

Banks, Louis Albert, D.D.

The Fisherman and His Friends.

A Series of 31 Revival Sermons from St. John's Gospel, Matthew, and the Acts of the Apostles. Delivered in Hanson Place M.E. Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., during January, 1896. (Companion Volume to "Christ and His Friends," by same Author. See page 3 of Cat.) 12mo, Cloth, 365 pp., gilt top, $1.50.

There is something clear, straight, and forceful about the style of Doctor Banks, and his methods of treating Scriptural subjects is instructive and helpful. These sermons will be read with interest and profit.—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

Seven Times Around Jericho.

This Book consists of Seven Stirring Temperance Discourses. It is a Companion Volume to the "Saloon-Keeper's Ledger." 12mo, Cloth, about 130 pp., 75 cents.

Bell, Prof. David Charles

The Reader's Shakespeare.

His Dramatic Works, Condensed, Connected, and Emphasized for School, College, Parlor, and Platform; also, for Supplementary Reading in Public Schools, etc. By Prof. D. C. Bell, of London (author of "Bell's Standard Elocutionist," etc.). In Three Volumes. Vol. I., containing The Historical Plays, English and Roman, now ready. 12mo, Cloth, 496 pp., $1.50. (Vol. II. contains the Tragedies and Romantic Plays; and Vol. III. contains the Comedies, in press).

To facilitate the much-prized but still neglected art of reading aloud, all Shakespeare's dramas are, in these volumes, for the first time, condensed, connected, emphasized, and annotated on a uniform plan. Each play is preceded by a brief narrative, historical and literary. The principal scenes, incidents, and characters, not only of the main, but of the secondary plots, are connected by elucidatory remarks. Each play is so condensed that it may be read aloud in about an hour. By the omission of the connecting narratives, they can be readily adapted for brief amateur dramatic representation; while, as a compact selection of scenes, speeches, and dialogues, they form a vade mecum for oratorical practise.

I have examined Professor Bell's Reader's Shakespeare, Vol. I., and am delighted with it. It is just what I have been wanting for the last two years. I read last year, and am reading this year, the 37 plays of Shakespeare to a large class. . . . These plays have been very judiciously cut down. The editorial matter tho limited is just what the student needs, and no more.—Hiram Corson, A.M., LL.D., Professor of English Literature, Cornell University.

Bell's Standard Elocutionist.

Bengough, J. W.

The Up-to-Date Primer.

A First Book of Lessons for Little Political Economists. 12mo, Limp Cloth, Illustrated, 75 pp. Per Copy, 25 cents; One Dozen, $2.50; Fifty, $9.00; One Hundred, $16.00.

The author, whose fame as a caricaturist and humorist is widespread throughout the United States and Canada, has in this introduced something new in the way of book-making which will carry laughter and instruction wherever it goes. The book is composed of words of one syllable, with pictures, and is designed for use in schools, colleges, universities, and other seats of learning. It is an amusing travesty on the child's primer in use in public schools. It contains 70 lessons, illustrated with as many cleverly conceived cartoons. The series presents a complete exposition of the theory taught in the works of Henry George. It is the book for use of all Single-Tax Clubs.

I have read Bengough's "Up-to-Date Primer" with great interest. Though it is funny, it is also instructive. Bengough has a wonderful faculty for shoveling truth into the brains of people while entertaining them, and he has displayed it at his best in this primer. I congratulate him on the success with which he has worked out his design, and I hope that you may be as successful in placing the book in the seats of learning for which it was intended, where economics are taught in words of 16 syllables, and the elements of economic wisdom are ignored.—Louis F. Post (of Single-Tax League of the United States, National Committee), in letter to the publishers.

Converse, C. C.

The Standard Hymnal.

A New Hymnal for use in the Church, at the Prayer-meeting, in the Sunday-school, at Christian Endeavor Meetings, Missionary Meetings, Revival Meetings, Etc. About 150 Hymns, With Words and Music. 12mo, Cloth, 112 pp. 35 cents.

This hymn book comprises standard new and old hymns now used and usable and is so compiled as to render a resort to other books unnecessary as regards appropriateness and choral excellence. Its author is best known as the composer of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and numerous other popular pieces of sacred music.

Fernald, Rev. J. C.

Synonyms, Antonyms, and Prepositions.

12mo, about 500 pp. (In Press.)

Some 6,000 or 7,000 Synonyms of the English Language are presented with careful discrimination. One word in each group has been taken as the basis of comparison, this word being clearly defined, and the difference between it and all the other words in the group being accurately pointed out. Nicety in shades of meaning is an important characteristic of these comparisons. The book also contains a large number of Antonyms as well as Prepositions, and a portion is devoted to Questions and Examples of especial service to both teacher and student.

Holley, Marietta

Samantha In Europe.

Octavo, 727 pp. 125 Illustrations by Baron C. De Grimm. Price, by Mail or Agent, Cloth, Elegantly Bound, and Stamped with Designs, etc., in Gold and Silver, Black and Green, $2.50; Half Russia, Gild Edges, $4.00. Sold by Subscription.

This book is the best book of travels since Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad."—The Boston Times.

. . . It must not be supposed that the book has no aim but to amuse people during a few hours of pastime. It has good ideas on politics, religion, sociology, and, in fact, all the questions that are of interest to-day. . . . Smiles and tears come from the same sentence, and it is so skilfully written that a proper equilibrium is maintained.— Christian Guide, Louisville.

The lovers of fun, those who desire to laugh and who can appreciate humor of the rarest kind, will hail with delight a new volume from the pen of Josiah Allen's Wife. This new volume is the story of "Samantha In Europe," and is illustrated with engravings as humorous as the pictures drawn by Samantha. There is not a dull page in the book, and it is a veritable treat for a reviewer to turn to such a book after having had to do with many that are being offered to the public.— Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Holy-Days and Holidays.

A New, Great Storehouse of Suggestive Thoughts, Facts, Illustrations for Sermons and Other Addresses on all Fixed Religious and Secular Anniversary Occasions. Octavo, Cloth, —— pp., $5.00. (In Press.)

SOME OF THE DAYS THAT ARE INCLUDED:

Advent Sunday; Christmas; Epiphany; Sundays in Lent; Palm Sunday; Good Friday; Easter; Ascension Day; Trinity Sunday; Pentecost, or Whitsunday; Reformation Sunday; Fast Day; Thanksgiving; New Year; Lincoln's Birthday; Washington's Birthday; Arbor Day; Decoration Day; Liberty Day; Flag-Raising Day; Fourth of July; Emancipation Day; Labor Day; Forefather's Day. In Canada: Queen's Birthday; Dominion Day.

THE PLAN OF THE BOOK.

Under each anniversary day will be grouped:

1. The most celebrated sermons or other addresses appropriate to the Day; several of these in full, many others in brief.

2. The subjects of all suggestive sermons and addresses appropriate to the Day; this we shall be able to obtain in the great libraries of New York, London, and elsewhere, also in each case a thought or more indicative of the treatment of the subject or text.

3. A world of appropriate quotations, illustrations, incidents, facts, statistics, etc.

In short, the aim is to make the book an Anniversary Day Cyclopedia of the relating literature and thought. Nothing of this kind, as far as the publishers can learn, has ever heretofore been published.

It must prove a most welcome book to preachers, one that will save them much time and thought in the gathering of materials for discourses, the drudgery work of the pulpit and platform. In its sphere it will do what the woodchoppers, the saw-mill hands, the quarrymen, and the hardware-makers do for the architect, who plans a palace or cathedral. It gathers the materials ready to the hands of the architect of sermons and addresses. It brings together the raw materials: he must be the master builder.

Jenkins, Burris A.

Heroes of Faith.

Simple Studies in New Testament Greek, Based on the Celebrated Eleventh Chapter of Hebrews. A First Work in Greek for Sunday-school Teachers, and other Scholars, presenting a general idea of the appearance of the Greek Text, its Literal Translation, and its form when put into the English Bible in both the Old and the New Versions. With an introduction by Professor Joseph Henry Thayer, D.D., LL.D., Professor of New Testament Criticism and Interpretation in the Theological Department of Harvard University. 8vo, 64 pp. Paper, 50 cents. Cloth, 75 cents. Both editions post-free.

This book was written in order to furnish a convenient beginners' manual for pastors, Sunday-school classes, Chautauqua circles, teachers' training classes, Y. M. C. A. classes, Christian Endeavorers, or individual students who are interested in the careful study of the Bible. It also affords to other students of the Bible some idea of how to go to work to make a thorough study of any portion of the New Testament, and gives any one, however unacquainted with ancient languages, some idea of the original Greek of the New Testament. It is designed to show how the Old Testament is related to the New, and how, after a starting-point has been taken in the New Testament, and a careful study begun, the reader will be led on rapidly to examine a large part of the entire Bible. A brief survey of the History, Geography, and Literature of the Old Testament is presented in such a convenient and suggestive manner that the reading of it must be at once profitable and instructive. It is further the purpose of this book to give the student, if he cares to take a little extra trouble, a fair start in acquiring such a knowledge of New Testament Greek, that he can begin at once to read his Greek Testament for himself.

Bishop John H. Vincent, D.D., LL.D., the originator of "The New Education in the Church" movement (whose object is to introduce and train the lay workers to a better and more critical study of the Scriptures) with a view to encourage Sunday-school teachers and other lay workers, intends to introduce this book as an illustration of the method which may be adopted in Bible study. The manual will be presented at every Chautauqua Assembly, and the holding of a class to complete a study of the chapter will be urged. The organization of classes elsewhere will be encouraged for promoting the more critical and thorough study of the Word of God. Burris A. Jenkins, who has prepared the new book, is considered the best Greek scholar now in the Harvard Divinity School, and Prof. Thayer is one of the ablest New Testament Greek teachers in the United States.

Talks to the King's Children.

A New Series of Short Object-Sermons after the order of the Author's "Five-Minute Object Sermons to Children." (See page 80 of Cat.) 12mo, Cloth, 249 pp., $1.00.

The author's sermonettes are such as children are sure to appreciate, and must be suggestive to pastors who aim to benefit the young of their flocks.—The Christian Inquirer, New York.

I wish to thank you in behalf of my school children for having your short sermons to children published. I read them to my school children as a part of our devotional exercises, and I often hear remarks like these: "I wish the author would come to Moose Meadow. I wish I could hear him. I wish I could see him and thank him for writing those sermons. Can't we write to him and thank him?" etc. And so I have been led to write you, thinking you in their behalf. Have you published any other books along the same line?

Moose Meadow is a small country place in eastern Connecticut, and I wished you to know that the country children enjoy your sermons equally well as city children, and I am very thankful that a copy of your book was put into my hands. I feel very grateful to God for putting it into the heart of some one to write such interesting sermons and beautiful object lessons. —Mrs. A. B. Dawe, Moose Meadow, Conn., Town of Willington, in letter to the author.

The book ["Youthful Eccentricity," etc.] expresses many general truths that should be widely circulated. . . .—Arthur MacDonald, author of "Criminology," etc.

The Elements of The Higher Criticism.

By Andrew C. Zenos, D.D., Professor of Biblical Theology in McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago. 12mo, Cloth, 268 pp., $1.00.

While the work is neither a plea nor a phillipic, it is eminently reassuring as to the Divine Source of the Holy Scriptures, the Bible.—The Arena, Boston.

It is safe to say that there is no other book of this kind on this subject.—The Religious Telescope.

The Elements of the Higher Criticism, by A. C. Zenos, is a book of intense interest to all religious folk, and one to be placed in the hands of the younger generation. . . . There is no cant in his book. He faces the objections which every man with brains has made. . . . Asking no odds of any one, but simply demanding the facts, and all of them. The chapters on archeology, showing to what extent the excavations in Nineveh and Babylon corroborate the Old Testament story, are specially valuable. We want more books of this kind, dealing open-handedly with the Bible, and we commend it very heartily as a scholarly and instructive volume.—George H. Hepworth, D.D., in the New York Herald.

THE HARVARD EDITION

OF

SHAKESPEARE'S COMPLETE WORKS.

By HENRY N. HUDSON, LL.D.,

Author of the "Life, Art, and Characters of Shakespeare,"
Editor of "School Shakespeare," Etc.

In Twenty Volumes, duodecimo, two plays in each volume; also in Ten Volumes, of four plays each.

Retail Prices.

20-vol. edition	cloth	$25.00	10-vol. edition	cloth	$20.00
	half-calf	55.00		half-calf	40.00

Hudson's "Life, Art, and Characters of Shakespeare (2 vols.) is uniform in size and binding with the The Harvard Edition, and is sold at the following retail prices: Cloth, $4.00 per set; half-calf $8.00 per set.

The Harvard Edition has been undertaken and the plan of it shaped with a special view to making the Poet's pages pleasant and attractive to general readers. Within the last thirty years great advances and additions have been made in the way of preparation for such a work, and these volumes bring the whole matter of Shakespeare up abreast with the latest researches.

The first volume contains "the Burbage portrait," and a life of the Poet. A history of each play is given in its appropriate volume. The plays are arranged in three distinct series: Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies; and the plays of each series presented, as nearly as may be, in the chronological order of the writing.

An obvious merit of this edition is, that each volume has two sets of notes, — one mainly devoted to explaining the text, and placed at the foot of the page; the other mostly occupied with matters of textual comment and criticism, and printed at the end of each play. The edition is thus admirably suited to the uses both of the general reader and of the special student. The foot-notes supply such and so much of explanatory comment as may be required by people who read Shakespeare, not to learn philology or the technicalities of the scholiast, but to learn Shakespeare himself; to take in his thought, to taste his wisdom, and to feel his beauty.

HARPER'S LIBRARY OF SELECT NOVELS. 8vo, Paper.

☞ HARPER & BROTHERS will supply their "Library of Select Novels," in half binding [leather backs and pasteboard sides], suitable for Public and Circulating Libraries, at 25 cents, net, per volume in addition to the prices named below for the respective works in paper.

Novels are sweets. All people with healthy literary appetites love them—almost all women; a vast number of clever, hard-headed men. Judges, bishops, chancellors, mathematicians, are notorious novel readers, as well as young boys and sweet girls, and their kind, tender mothers.—W. M. THACKERAY.

It would be well if Pantheists and other deniers of Divine Providence would only take the trouble to read the authentic instances in illustration of this doctrine, given by Mr. Hastings in his beautiful work bearing the title of The Guiding Hand.—Leeds Mercury.

The old story of the Babe of Bethlehem is told in simple rhyme, and presented in a form likely to be attractive to children.—House and Home. The wonderful story, which children love to hear, and for which wise men adore God, is here told in rhyme, with good illustrations. It is altogether a charming thing, and mothers are sure to buy it for their darlings.—Rainbow. Bold, clear type and good paper make this scripture narrative, cleverly told in rhyme, but printed in prose, attractive to the little ones.—Reformatory and Refuge Journal, London, England. This is a book which we should think any boy or girl would be glad to read. The pieces are mostly prose; all are brief; all teach generally by anecdote, and in a pleasant way, the simpler lessons of morality and religion. The author has evidently striven to produce a book that will be of real service in influencing the young to pursue those courses that tend to a noble manhood and womanhood. It is a good book for the Sunday-school library and the home circle.—Morning Star, Dover, N. H. The finish of this little volume is exquisite.—Pioneer-Press, St. Paul, Minn. You can hardly find a neater, more acceptable, or more useful present for your boy or girl. Hudson's Concordance is of especial value for the work of revision.—Dr. Phillip Schaff. An invaluable help in our revision.—Dr. B. F. Westcott, Cambridge, England. Dr. J. A. ALEXANDER, in his Notes on New Testament History and Ecclesiastical History, pp. 185–186, speaks thus of Dr. Mosheim:

The works of Mosheim are distinguished by a thorough knowledge of the subject, rare acuteness and sagacity in critical conjecture and historical combination, great completeness and exactness as to the essential facts of history and especially by classical elegance of Latin style.

MURDOCK'S SYRIAC NEW TESTAMENT. Translated into English from the Peshitto Version New Testament by JAMES MURDOCK, D. D., late Professor of Learned Languages in the University of Vermont; and of Sacred Rhetoric and Ecclesiastical History in Andover Theological Seminary; Member of the American Oriental Society, etc.; with a portrait of translator, and a biographical sketch, with a historical introduction, by H. Half leather, $2.50

Your new edition of Murdock's Translation of the Peshitto Syriac New Testament into English came to hand. . . . I find the version most faithful. Taken as a whole, remarkably well executed and deserves a wide circulation. Your introduction . . . . and the account of the Syriac translations, by Dr. Hall greatly enhance the book's value.—Henry M. Harman, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Penn.

The Historical Introduction by HORACE L. HASTINGS reads like a romance, and ISAAC H. HALL'S Appendix will remain useful to all students . . . It is now a companion to the Syriac New Testament like that of Schaff to the Greek and English; two books which our German students of divinity must envy their English and American fellows.—Prof. Dr. E. Nestle, of Tübingen, Germany.

The Origin and Rationale of Colliery Explosions.

By DONALD M. D. STUART, F.G.S. $3.00, Net.

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS.

Chamber of Commerce Journal :

"Mr. Stuart's conclusions, he admits, differ from the public idea of the cause of the large disasters in gaseous mines, but the facts and inductions are now open for examination, and if they are incapable of refutation the subject must be greatly advanced, as the obscurity of the danger will disappear, as well as the uncertainty of its outburst, and the calamities may be largely provided against. Mr. Stuart is unobtrusively performing a public service; he deserves, and we fully expect he will receive, the hearty thanks of those concerned in any way with the coal-mining industry."

Colliery Engineer and Metal Miner :

"The writer very ably maintains his theory of the cause of explosions in what he calls non-gaseous mines, and he attributes to coal-dust more than to fire-damp the origin of nearly all the explosions in mines. One cannot read a page of this book without being impressed with the conviction that the writer is intensely in earnest, and therefore his book is worth reading. Whether his conclusions are right or not, the book is of great value, being ably written, and being also the best presentation of the claims of the coal-dust theory we have seen."

Generations of Terah. GENESIS, 12. God calleth Abram.

17 And Ē′bēr lived after he begat Pē′leg four hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters.
18 And Pē′leg lived thirty years, and begat Rē′u:
19 And Pē′leg lived after he begat Rē′u two hundred and nine years, and begat sons and daughters.
20 And Rē′u lived two and thirty years, and begat Sē′rug:
21 And Rē′u lived after he begat Sē′rug two hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters.
22 And Sē′rug lived thirty years, and begat Nā′hôr:
23 And Sē′rug lived after he begat Nā′hôr two hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.
24 And Nā′hôr lived nine and twenty years, and begat Tē′rah:
25 And Nā′hôr lived after he begat Tē′rah an hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters.
26 And Tē′rah lived seventy years, and begat Ā′brăm, Nā′hôr, and Hā′ran.
27 ¶ Now these are the generations of Tē′rah: Tē′rah begat Ā′brăm, Nā′hôr, and Hā′ran; and Hā′ran begat Lŏt.
28 And Hā′ran died before his father Tē′rah in the land of his nativity, in Ûr of the Chăl′dees.
29 And Ā′brăm and Nā′hôr took them wives: the name of Ā′brăm's wife was Sā′rāi; and the name of Nā′hôr's wife, Mĭl′cah, the daughter of Hā′ran, the father of Mĭl′cah, and the father of Ĭs′cah.
30 But Sā′rāi was barren; she had no child.
31 And Tē′rah took Ā′brăm his son, and Lŏt the son of Hā′ran his son's son, and Sā′rāi his daughter in law, his son Ā′brăm's wife; and they went forth with them from Ûr of the Chăl′dees, to go into the land of Cā′năan; and they came unto Hā′ran, and dwelt there.
32 And the days of Tē′rah were two hundred and five years: and Tē′rah died in Hā′ran.

CHAPTER 12.

1 God calleth Abram, and blesseth him with a promise of Christ: 4 he departs from Haran. 6 Canaan promised.

NOW the LORD had said unto Ā′brăm, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:
2 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing:
3 And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.
4 So Ā′brăm departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him; and Lŏt went with him: and Ā′brăm was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Hā′ran.
5 And Ā′brăm took Sā′rāi his wife, and Lŏt his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Hā′ran; and they went forth to go into the land of Cā′năan; and into the land of Cā′năan they came.
6 ¶ And Ā′brăm passed through the land unto the place of Sī′chem, unto the plain of Mō′reh. And the Cā′năan-ite was then in the land.
7 And the LORD appeared unto Ā′brăm, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him.
8 And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the east of Bĕth′-el, and pitched his tent, having Bĕth′-el on the west, and Hā′ī on the east: and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD.
9 And Ā′brăm journeyed, going on still toward the south.
10 ¶ And there was a famine in the land: and Ā′brăm went down into Ē′gўpt to sojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.
11 And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Ē′gўpt, that he said unto Sā′rāi his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon:
12 Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Ē-gўp′tjans shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will save thee alive.
13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee.

19 [e] And the border of the Cā′năan-ites was from Sī′dŏn, as thou comest to Gē′rär, unto [7] Gā′zà; as thou goest, unto Sŏd′om, and Gŏmŏr′rah, and Ăd′mah, and Ze-bō′im, even unto Lā′shà.

20 These are the sons of Hăm, after their families, after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations.

21 ¶ Unto Shĕm also, the father of all the children of Ē′bĕr, the brother of Jā′pheth the elder, even to him were children born.

22 The [f] children of Shĕm; Ē′lăm, and Ăs′shur, and [8] Ăr-phăx′ăd, and Lūd, and Ā′ram.

23 And the children of Ā′ram; Ŭz, and Hūl, and Gē′thēr, and Măsh.

24 And Ăr-phăx′ăd begat [9] [g] Să′lah; and Să′lah begat Ē′bĕr.

25 [h] And unto Ē′bĕr were born two sons: the name of one was [10] Pē′leg; for in his days was the earth divided; and his brother's name was Jōk′tan.

26 And Jōk′tan begat Ăl-mō′dăd, and Shē′leph, and Hā′zar-mā′veth, and Jē′răh,

27 And Hă-dō′ram, and Ū′zal, and Dĭk′lah,

28 And Ō′bal, and Ă-bĭm′ă-el, and Shē′bà,

29 And Ō′phĭr, and Hăv′ī-lah, and Jō′băb: all these were the sons of Jōk′tan.

30 And their dwelling was from Mē′shà, as thou goest unto Sē′phar a mount of the east.

31 These are the sons of Shĕm, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.

32 [i] These are the families of the sons of Nō′ah, after their generations, in their nations: [j] and by these were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

AND the whole earth was [a] of one [1] language, and of one [2] speech.

2 And it came to pass, as they journeyed [3] from the east, that they found a plain in the land of [b] Shī′nar; and they dwelt there.

3 And [4] they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and [5] burn them thoroughly. And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for morter.

4 And they said, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, [c] whose top [6] may reach unto heaven; and let us make [d] us a name, lest we be [e] scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth.

7 Go to, [h] let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may [i] not understand one another's speech.

8 So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence [j] upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city.

9 Therefore is the name of it called [7] Bā′bel; [k] because the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD scatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

THE EDITION OF

THE HOLMAN SELF-PRONOUNCING S. S. TEACHERS' BIBLE,

WITH ILLUSTRATIONS.

Containing, in addition to the "Helps" enumerated on the preceding pages,

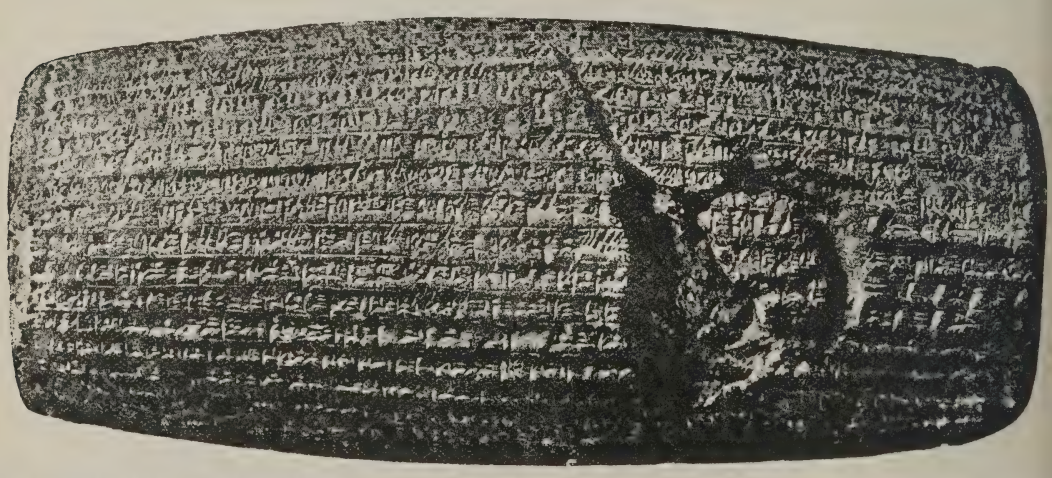
FULL-PAGE PLATES,

REPRODUCING IN FACSIMILE AUTHENTIC DOCUMENTS, MONUMENTS, PICTURES AND PORTRAITS, ILLUSTRATING THE HISTORY OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

Selected and described by E. MAUNDE THOMPSON, D. C. L., LL.D., Principal Librarian of the British Museum; A. S. MURRAY, LL.D., F. S. A., Keeper of Greek and Roman Antiquities, British Museum; and E. A. WALLACE BUDGE, Litt. D., F. S. A., Acting Assistant Keeper of Egyptian and Assyrian Antiquities, British Museum.

"As a result of the decipherment, the general course of events and the internal development of Babylonia and Assyria have become clear. We have quite complete histories of a number of Assyrian kings who up to a short time ago were known only by name. The lists of the occupants of the Babylonian and Assyrian thrones are now virtually complete, onward from the fifteenth century before our era. We know far more of Sennacherib and Esarhaddon than we do of their contemporaries, Hezekiah and Manasseh of Judea; of earlier times we have at least as copious records as of the early days of Greece and Rome; and if the hopes of the present are fulfilled, in another fifty years our knowledge of Assyria and Babylonia bids fair to rival in completeness what we know of the Middle Ages."—Extract from The Bible and the Assyrian Monuments, by Dr. MORRIS JASTROW, Jr., in the Century Illustrated Monthly Magazine.

SPECIMEN OF THE ILLUSTRATIONS.



PART OF A BAKED CLAY CYLINDER, inscribed in the Babylonian character with an account of the capture of Babylon by Cyrus, the son of Cambyses, the grandson of Cyrus, B. C. 539. (British Museum.)

The inscription states that Cyrus was called to the rule of Babylonia by the god [Marduk], whose services and honor had been diminished by Nabonidus, the native king. The god aided Cyrus mightily, and marched by his side like a friend and ally. The outlying cities of Babylonia fell before the king one after another, and finally he and his troops, which are said to have been like the water of the river for multitude, marched into Babylon without striking a blow. The priests and nobles of the country came and kissed his feet, and rejoiced in their new king. The inscription ends with a proclamation of Cyrus announcing the good things which he will do for the country and its people, and the honor which he will show to the gods Marduk, Bel, and Nebo.

24 And Ăr-phăx′ăd begat [9] [g] Sā′lah; and Sā′lah begat Ē′bĕr.

25 [h] And unto Ē′bĕr were born two sons: the name of one was [10] Pē′leg; for in his days was the earth divided; and his brother's name was Jŏk′tan.

26 And Jŏk′tan begat Ăl-mō′dăd, and Shē′leph, and Hā′zar-mā′veth, and Jē′răh,

27 And Hă-dō′ram, and Ū′zal, and Dĭk′lah,

28 And Ō′bal, and Ă-bĭm′ă-el, and Shē′bà,

29 And Ō′phĭr, and Hăv′ī-lah, and Jō′băb: all these were the sons of Jŏk′tan.

30 And their dwelling was from Mē′shà, as thou goest unto Sē′phar a mount of the east.

31 These are the sons of Shĕm, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.

32 [i] These are the families of the sons of Nō′ah, after their generations, in their nations: [j] and by these were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

CHAPTER 11.

1 One language in the world. 3 The building of Babel, and confusion of tongues. 10 The generations of Shem, 27 and of Terah. 31 Terah goeth from Ur to Haran.

AND the whole earth was [a] of one [1] language, and of one [2] speech.

2 And it came to pass, as they journeyed [3] from the east, that they found a plain in the land of [b] Shĭ′nār; and they dwelt there.

3 And [4] they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and [5] burn them thoroughly. And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for morter.

4 And they said, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, [c] whose top [6] may reach unto heaven; and let us make [d] us a name, lest we be [e] scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth.

5 [f] And the LORD came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded.

6 And the LORD said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have [g] imagined to do.

7 Go to, [h] let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may [i] not understand one another's speech.

8 So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence [j] upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city.

9 Therefore is the name of it called [7] Bā′bel; [k] because the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD scatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

10 ¶ [l] These are the generations of Shĕm: Shĕm was an hundred years old, and begat Ăr-phăx′ăd two years after the flood:

11 And Shĕm lived after he begat Ăr-phăx′ăd five hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.

12 And Ăr-phăx′ăd lived five and thirty years, [m] and begat Sā′lah:

13 And Ăr-phăx′ăd lived after he begat Sā′lah four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

14 And Sā′lah lived thirty years, and begat Ē′bĕr:

15 And Sā′lah lived after he begat Ē′bĕr four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

16 [n] And Ē′bĕr lived four and thirty years, and begat [8] Pē′leg:

17 And Ē′bĕr lived after he begat Pē′leg four hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters.

18 And Pē′leg lived thirty years, and begat [9] Rē′u:

19 And Pē′leg lived after he begat Rē′u two hundred and nine years, and begat sons and daughters.

20 And Rē′u lived two and thirty years, and begat [10] Sē′rug:

21 And Rē′u lived after he begat Sē′rug two hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters.

22 And Sē′rug lived thirty years, and begat Nā′hôr:

23 And Sē′rug lived after he begat Nā′hôr two hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.

24 And Nā′hôr lived nine and twenty years, and begat [11] Tē′rah:

25 And Nā′hôr lived after he begat Tē′rah an hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters.

28 ¶ [e] And the rest of the people, the priests, the Lē'vītes, the porters, the singers, the Nĕth'ĭ-nĭms, [f] and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;

29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, [g] and entered into a curse, and into an oath, [h] to walk in God's law, which was given [5] by Mō'sęs the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our Lord, and his judgments and his statutes;

CHAPTER 1.

1 The genealogy of Jesus Christ: 18 Mary's miraculous conception; Jesus is born: 21, 23 his names, with their interpretation.

THE book of the generation of Jē′şus Chrĭst, the son of Dā′vid, the son of Ā′brā-hăm.

2 Ā′brā-hăm begat Ī′şaac; and Ī′şaac begat Jā′cob; and Jā′cob begat Jū′das and his brethren;

3 And Jū′das begat Phā′rēş and Zā′rā of Thā′mar; and Phā′rēş begat Ĕs′rom; and Ĕs′rom begat Ā′ram;

4 And Ā′ram begat Ă-mĭn′a-dab; and Ă-mĭn′a-dab begat Nă-ăs′son; and Nă-ăs′son begat Săl′mŏn;

5 And Săl′mŏn begat Bō′oz of Rā′chăb; and Bō′oz begat Ō′bed of Ruth; and Ō′bed begat Jĕs′sē;

6 And Jĕs′sē begat Dā′vid the king; and Dā′vid the king begat Sŏl′o-mon of her that had been the wife of U-rī′as;

7 And Sŏl′o-mon begat Rĕ-bō′am; and Rĕ-bō′am begat Ă-bī′ă; and Ă-bī′ă begat Ā′să;

8 And Ā′să begat Jŏs′a-phăt; and Jŏs′a-phăt begat Jō′ram; and Jō′ram begat Ō-zī′as;

9 And Ō-zī′as begat Jō′a-thăm; and Jō′a-thăm begat Ā′chăz; and Ā′chăz begat Ĕz-ē-kī′as;

10 And Ĕz-ē-kī′as begat Mă-năs′sēş; and Mă-năs′sēş begat Ā′mon; and Ā′mon begat Jō-sī′as;

11 And Jō-sī′as begat Jĕch-ō-nī′as and his brethren, about the time they were carried away to Băb′ў-lon:

12 And after they were brought to Băb′ў-lon, Jĕch-ō-nī′as begat Să-lā′thĭ-el; and Să-lā′thĭ-el begat Zō-rŏb′a-bĕl;

13 And Zō-rŏb′a-bĕl begat Ă-bī′ud; and Ă-bī′ud begat Ĕ-lī′a-kĭm; and Ĕ-lī′a-kĭm begat Ā′zôr;

14 And Ā′zôr begat Să′dŏc; and Să′dŏc begat Ā′chĭm; and Ā′chĭm begat Ĕ-lī′ŭd;

15 And Ĕ-lī′ŭd begat Ē-le-ā′zar; and Ē-le-ā′zar begat Măt′than; and Măt′than begat Jā′cob;

16 And Jā′cob begat Jō′şeph the husband of Mā′rў, of whom was born Jē′şus, who is called Chrĭst.

17 So all the generations from Ā′brăham to Dā′vid are fourteen generations; and from Dā′vid until the carrying away into Băb′ў-lon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Băb′ў-lon unto Chrĭst are fourteen generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of Jē′şus Chrĭst was on this wise: When as his mother Mā′rў was espoused to Jō′şeph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Hō′lў Ghōst.

19 Then Jō′şeph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to make her a publick example, was minded to put her away privily.

20 But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Jō′şeph, thou son of Dā′vid, fear not to take unto thee Mā′rў thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Hō′lў Ghōst.

21 And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JĒ′ŞUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.

22 Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

23 Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Ĕm-măn′ū-el, which being interpreted is, God with us.

24 Then Jō′şeph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife:

25 And knew her not till she had brought forth her firstborn son: and he called his name JĒ′ŞUS.

CHAPTER 2.

1 Wise men enquire after Christ: 11 they worship him, and offer presents. 13 Joseph fleeth into Egypt with Jesus and Mary. 16 Herod slayeth the children at Bethlehem: 19 Christ brought out of Egypt.

NOW when Jē′şus was born in Bĕth′lē-hĕm of Jū-dæ′ă in the days of Hĕr′od the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jē-rų′să-lĕm,

2 Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen

This magnificent edition of the Holy Scriptures is printed from the most beautiful and expensive Bible plates ever produced in this country or in England. They are practically new and entirely unworn, as but a limited number of copies have ever been printed from them.

The Imperial Pulpit Bible formerly published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., and heretofore held to be the most expensive Bible ever made in this country, was printed from these plates.

The bindings are all the very best Levant Morocco, the styles conforming to the latest London editions.

This edition in its various styles, from the cheapest to the most expensive, is unsurpassed in uniformity of presswork or in magnificence of binding.
